U-20 SINKS; CREW SAVED BY BRITISH

TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER RAMS GERMAN SUBMARINE WHICH FLOUNDERS AFTER CREW SURRENDERS.

SEVENTH BOAT SUNK

English Censors Refuse to Give Out Information on Location of Fight—No Privileges For German Crew.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 10.—The submarine U-20, according to official announcement, was rammed today by the British torpedo boat destroyer Ariel. It went to the bottom. The members of the submersibles' crew surrendered and were saved.

The location of the sinking of the submarine is not disclosed in the admiralty announcement.

The captured crew will be deprived of all special privileges as was done in the case of the men on board the U-8, and they will be held for trial in connection with the sinking of merchant vessels.

The U-20 is probably the submarine which yesterday sunk the British steamer Blackwood.

The submarine U-20 was built in 1913; she had a displacement of 840 tons and a speed of 17 knots on surface and 12 knots submerged. She was equipped with four torpedo tubes, two in the bow and two in the stern. Comparatively, she was one of the larger of the German submarines, the U-8 and U-9 having a tonnage of only 300 and submerged speed of not more than eight knots. The maximum radius of boats of the U-20 type have been given by marine authorities at 2,000 miles.

The loss of the U-20 makes the seventh German submarine to be destroyed since beginning of the war, according to statements given out officially in London. These boats are: U-15 sunk by British cruiser Birmingham in August; U-18, rammed and sunk by British patrol boat November 23, and three unidentified submersibles officially declared lost on October 25, October 30 and February 28. The sixth submarine to be destroyed was the U-8, sunk off Dover March 4.

Silence New Batteries.

Paris, March 10.—Operations of the allied fleet stopped yesterday (Tuesday) morning by unfavorable weather conditions, were resumed vigorously in the afternoon, says an Athens dispatch to the Matin. The warships are reported to have made additional progress in the narrows, silencing Turkish batteries on the height of Renqui, the fire from which had proved troublesome to the fleet in its maneuvers.

A fragment of a Turkish shell fell yesterday at the feet of Rear Admiral Guepratte, commander of the French division operating with the allies' fleet in the Dardanelles, as he was directing the operation of the battleship Suffren, which had executed a daring maneuver by penetrating the extreme limit of the mine field, says a Tenedos dispatch to the Petit Parisien. Several shells are reported to have struck the warships, but the correspondent makes no mention of her having been damaged.

Praises Ship's Crew.

After yesterday's operations, the Tenedos dispatch says, the crew of the battleship Gaulois was warmly praised by Vice Admiral Carden, the British commander, for the assistance given in the reduction of the Dardanus redoubt. Powerful Turkish batteries were silenced by the Gaulois which was herself struck by two six inch shells, although the damage is declared to have been insignificant.

Operations of the French warships have been delayed for a few hours by the necessity of taking aboard food and ammunition.

Italy Sends Warships.

Geneva, via Paris, March 10.—The Tribune says it has learned from Vienna that several Italian warships have put to sea, probably bound for the Dardanelles.

Optimism Pervades London.

London, March 10.—As England sees it, not since the war began has the situation both on land and sea been more favorable to the allies than today. Confident opinions of this nature are finding constant expressions in London.

Slowly but surely it is argued the allied fleet is creeping toward Constantinople and thus opening another road to Berlin; the retirement of Von Hindenburg's army from North Poland is said to be imminent by many British observers of affairs; in the west the allies claim the ascendency all along the line, although no decisive engagements are being fought, while in the Balkans and Italy, according to British interpretations of political news from these countries, the majority is clamoring for intervention on the side of Great Britain, France and Russia.

Succeed at Dardanelles.

Paris officially confirmed today what London heard unofficially last night, namely that the superdreadnaught Queen Elizabeth slipped into the Dardanelles on Monday and bombarded the Turkish forts, another one of which on the European side has been partly demolished.

Correspondents at Petrograd of English newspapers say that the German failure to reduce the Russian fortress of Osowetz, together with the reported German defeat at Grodno and Przasnysz, means a definite abandonment of the German offensive in North Poland, thus making in the opinion of these correspondents, von Hindenburg's rush over the frontier another costly failure.

The Germans, though unable to advance in Russia, are reported to be holding a line some 30 miles behind the extreme limit of their forward dash of a month ago.

German Move Fails.

Petrograd, March 10.—To remedy the strategic weakness of the position at Osowetz, which was left open to a Russian outflanking movement by the retirement of the right wing of their northern army toward the Augustowo forest, the Germans have attempted an advance in force along the road from Kolno to Lomza. The Russian general staff reports that the attacks failed completely.

Notwithstanding their exposed position at Osowetz, the German columns continued to use their heaviest attacks at this point.

Meanwhile they are conducting desultory operations along the whole front from Augustowo to Drobin, which is twenty miles northeast of Plonsk in order to distract attention from the Osowetz battle and cover the retreat of the forces which encountered a reverse at Przasnysz. This force already has retreated close to the border in the district between Janow and Mlawa.

Near Prussian Border.

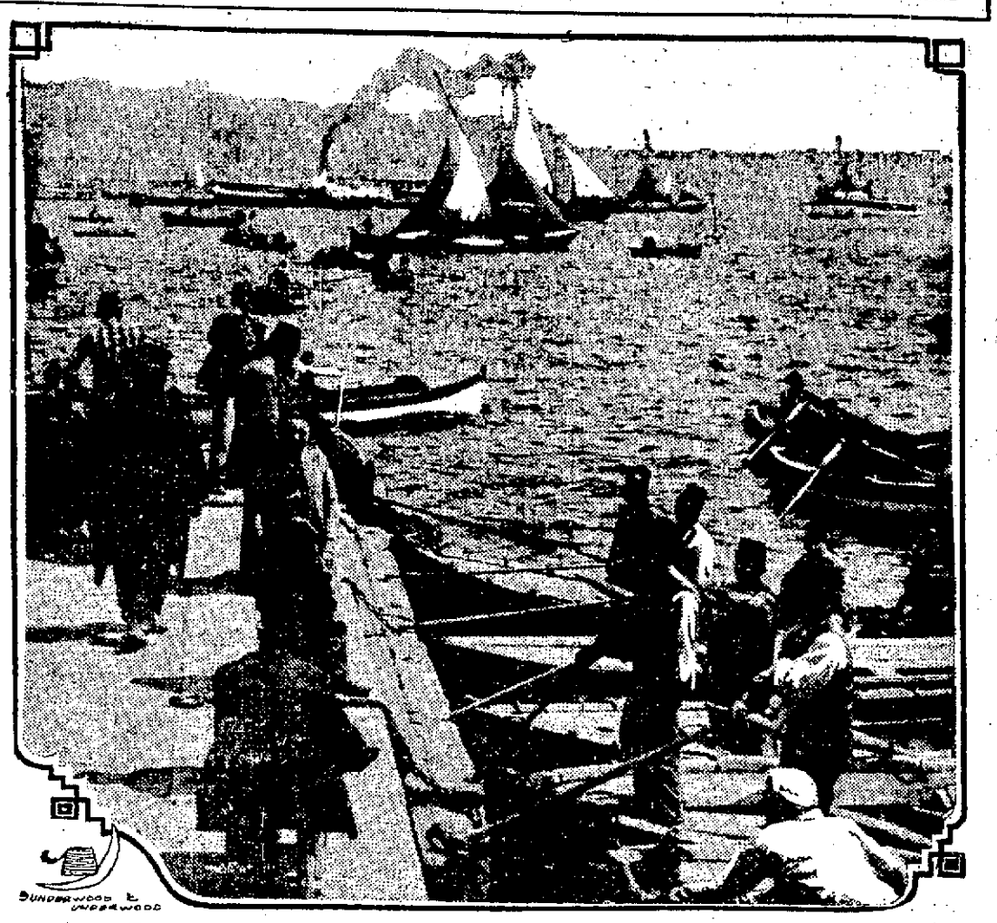

With the exception of the German forces at Simno and Osowetz, and those advancing south from Drebin, with the evident intent of reaching Wyszogrod, the German armies operating in the north of Poland, have executed a general retreat to within a few miles of the Prussian boundary. The occasional evidences of offensive activity, by the Germans along this front, are viewed by the Russian authorities as defensive maneuvers designed to allow their force to retreat in good order and to prevent an invasion of their own territory by the Russians.

The Russian aviators from Osowetz succeeded in bombarding a German wagon train to the west of Osowetz on the German border.

Force Turks to Retire.

Tiflis, Trancaucasia, March 9, via Petrograd and London.—The Turkish forces and the Kurds who have been concentrated in the district of Khoi in the northwestern border of Persia, are slowly being forced by the Russians to retreat to the southward. Russian forces already have come into possession of several villages in which Turkish troops had been quartered. Information reaching here from the south is that a large number of Armenians who remain in Urumiah, Persian Armenia, 60 miles from Tabriz, were placed under the protection of the American consular officials. There is a consulate at Tabriz. Two thousand Armenians were locked in a church at Urumiah for safety. They were ill supplied with food and many died from starvation and disease.

ALLIED FLEET EXPECTED SOON TO ANCHOR IN THESE WATERS

Freighters, ferries and ocean liners on Golden Horn; looking north to Constantinople.

In these waters of the Bosphorus, which separate Constantinople from Asia, the allied fleet expects soon to anchor. Never before in history have the Turks permitted a hostile fleet to enter the Bosporus in time of war.

PORTUGESE WORKERS START BREAD RIOTS

Police and Laborers in Naval Arsenal Engage in Serious Clash—Many Are Injured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lisbon, via Paris, March 10.—The increased price of bread was responsible yesterday for violent clashes between police and workmen in the naval arsenal. The police used their weapons freely and many persons were injured before the disturbance was ended.

WILL CONFISCATE SUPPLY OF BARLEY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, via London, March 10.—Expropriation of all stock of barley exceeding a metric ton (2204 lbs.) has been ordered by the Bundesrath. Certain exceptions are made, however, for farmers, stock owners and persons who wish to use the grain for seed purposes.

RUSSIA UNDERRATED AUSTRIA'S STRENGTH

Claim that Czar Believed Dual Monarchy Read to Fall Apart and an Easy Prey.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Pittsburgh, March 10.—Asserting that Russia pushed her offensive action so far as to make the war inevitable in the belief that Austria-Hungary was split by factional strife, Joseph Lindenlauf of Dartmund, Germany, in a letter to Herman Stratman of this city, published in the Pittsburgh Leader, discusses the situation as follows:

Austria, being a collection of Slavonic, Hungarian and German units and therefore a conglomeration of tongues, was, since its disunion with the Germanic federation, regarded by the world at large as weak.

Accordingly Russia, with her ideas of Slavonic rulership in Europe, based her politics upon the erroneous supposition that, instead of the German tongue having sway in Austria, she by right of the German minority in Austria should have control in ruling the Slavonic people.

The Hungarians, having a liberal government, were of course opposed to any such whip government, and the Slavonic races compared their positions and lot with their brethren in Russia. The result was that as a united Germany, answered the declaration of war. I say a united Austria, "almost" the same as a united Germany, because the meaning of a "united Germany" today has no parallel. It is unique; it stands alone in the history of the world.

The patriotism of ancient Greece and Rome, of William Tell and Winkelried, of the Napoleonic guard, of the American patriots of '76, is overshadowed by the patriotism, by the self offerings, by the intelligent insight into the future, of the present German people. Where is there a traitor? Where in the history of the world can likewise be said? Even patriotic America of '76 had its Tories.

Naturally such nations as England, Russia and France, who only investigate the surface, figured that Austria could not be of very much advantage to Germany. Therefore, choosing pretense of war against Germany. Of course she was in alliance with France and secretly so with England, Japan and Belgium, as well as with the half civilized Serbs and Montenegrins.

Although having to fight against great odds and for a long time on the defensive, Austria has inflicted a wound which will ever bleed.

She has successfully withstood the rush of millions, and if Russia stands upon her territory, so does Austria stand upon Russian territory. Shoulder to shoulder with Germany, Austria is successfully fighting for her existence.

TEMPERANCE FORCES GAIN IN MINNESOTA

Thirty Towns Previously in "Wet" Column Vote Prohibition at Election Tuesday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Paul, March 10.—Virtually complete returns today from the municipal elections held yesterday in about 200 towns and cities of Minnesota shows the anti-saloon forces had been successful in more than 30 towns, previously in the wet column. Four towns that had been without saloons, however, went over to the wet side, leaving the division of towns that voted yesterday at 102 dry and 96 wet. Rochester, the largest town voting on the license issued remained with the wets.

PIONEER COUPLE OBSERVE 64TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marinette, March 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bovin, well known residents of Walsh, Wis., recently celebrated their 64th anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Bovin is a pioneer farmer of this county and neighbors for miles around came to his home that day to help him and his venerable wife mark the notable anniversary. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bovin were born in Canada. Mr. Bovin is 86 and his wife is 84. Four generations of the family are living.

SHOWS ADVANTAGES OF FRENCH WEAPONS OVER GERMAN'S GUNS

Artillery Officer Declares "75" Gun Most Effective Piece of Artillery Used in Fight.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Boulogne, France, March 10.—A French artillery officer, who has been at the front from the beginning of the war, has sent to the newspapers an account of the French "75" gun, which he regards as the most successful all-round piece of artillery in use by any army.

"The feature in which the gun has most conspicuously established its superiority," he writes, "is in the rapidity of its fire. This to some extent depends upon the division of labor among the gunners, but even more upon the mechanical properties of the gun. The designer has so arranged it that no matter how the weapon is pointed, the force of recoil passes through the exact center of the beche or anchor. In the German gun, the force is directed not at the point of the beche, but at a point to right or left of it, with the result that the gun tends to be slewed around and has to be continually aimed afresh.

"A great virtue of the French "75" is the extent to which it resists deterioration. If you examine a French shell that has been fired at the end of the past six months of hard fighting, you will find evidence that the gun's rifling is almost as good and efficient as at the beginning of the war. This comes as a surprise to many people who have heard of the rapidity with which naval guns deteriorate, but the conditions are, of course, different, as the velocities needed in naval work make an enormously greater demand upon the naval gun.

"A great deal has been written about the deadliness of the French shell fire and the relative inefficiency of that of the Germans. Assuming that the shells of both guns explode, the French shell will have the advantage for the following reason. The German shell hits the ground and digs a hole. By the native of things—as the fragments of shell must fly, roughly, straight—nothing will be hit that is below a line extended out in diagonal direction from the sides of the hole dug by the shell. In other words, it is possible to be lying on the ground quite close to the spot where a shell has burst and to be untouched. A horse has to be a yard or so farther away, but even he soon gets out of the zone of fire.

"With the French shell it is different. The French shell is constructed to ricochet; it strikes the ground and bounces, only exploding when it is in the air as the result of the bounce. The explosion occurs when the shell is off the ground, and there is no 'hole surface' to protect a possible victim.

"Our experience in the present war seems to show also that the French shrapnel bullet is more efficient than the German. The bullets of the 75 shrapnel shell weigh 11 grams (slightly less than half an ounce), whereas the similar German bullet weighs only nine grams. Experience seems to show that a bullet of at least eleven grams is necessary to stop a man advancing. The effect of the bullet is of course enormously increased by the high velocity of the French shell. Bullets of our 75 shrapnel strike at a velocity of 90 meters a second, whereas those of the corresponding German gun travel at sixty meters. The energy of the two bullets is in fact mathematically about 3 to 1 in favor of the French.

"From one general point of view, the German artillery has long stood condemned in our eyes. In Germany there has been for years a divorce betwten the artillerymen and the men who make the gun. Every improvement with the Germans has had to originate from Krupps, and there has thus been a disastrous hiatus between theory and practice. With us it is different. Our artillery has made its own gun. We have accepted improvements from every quarter, and have paid our men not in cash reward but by promotion or recognition."

ASSEMBLY APPROVES MEASURE TO REPEAL BIG APPROPRIATION

Action Taken Favoring Withdrawal of Money for Men's Dormitory at University.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, March 10.—The assembly today passed on bills for the repeal of $400,000 of appropriations made by the last legislature.

By a vote of 69 to 24 the assembly sent to engrossment the bill to repeal the appropriation of $350,000, for a men's dormitory and union at the University of Wisconsin.

By a vote of 39 to 54, it refused to kill the bill which would repeal a $45,000 appropriation for a physical educational building at La Crosse normal school.

By a vote of 36 to 57 they killed the Frederick bill to appropriate $8,000 for humane society organization work in the state.

The assembly refused to reconsider the vote by which it passed the Vinf resolution to amend the constitution giving the state the power to open and operate storage houses and grain elevators.

The senate laid over until tomorrow the Guenewald bill appropriating $3,100 for an educational exhibit at San Francisco. In the debate Senators Bray and Bennett charged the Wisconsin commission to the Panama Pacific exposition with having wasted much of the $75,000 fund which it has at its disposal.

New senate bills include:

By Ackley—To pension circuit court judges after 70 years of age and after having served 20 years.

Ackley—Authorizing cities to construct and maintain dams in navigable waters for supplying inhabitants with water and light to acquire a water power site within or without other limits.

The assembly adjourned until tonight, when it will consider the Stemper bill amending the Baker law, affecting saloons. The senate rested until tomorrow.

GIVE THAW CHANCE TO PROVE SANITY

Fugitive to Take Witness Stand in Own Behalf and Describe His Escape from Matteawan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 10.—Harry K. Thaw will take the witness stand in his own behalf with five co-defendants charged with conspiracy, according to the announcement made by his attorneys today. He will tell the story of his escape from Matteawan, they said. In this way they believe he will materially aid the fight they are making to establish his sanity.

Each of the witnesses placed upon the stand today by the state upon cross examination was asked questions designed to indicate to the jury that the slayer of Standford White was of sound mind at the time of his escape. Although none of the witnesses was asked directly whether he considered Thaw sane, each was questioned closely about Thaw's personal appearance, his manner of discussing current topics and in occupying his spare moments.

The witnesses, the most of them employes at the hospital, said that Thaw was always neatly dressed, that he never was violent and read many text books on various subjects and current novels. The state was expected to complete its case late today.

It became known this morning that John Anhut, the young lawyer who was sent to Sing Sing for attempting to bribe the superintendent of the Matteawan hospital, had been brought from Ossining by the prosecution to testify.

PROPOSES ABOLITION OF TAX COMMISSION

Assemblyman Nelson Is Sponsor of Measure Which Would Eliminate State Board.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., March 10.—Assemblyman Nelson proposes that the state tax commission be abolished. A bill introduced by him, which came back from the printer today asks for the repeal of Chapter 48-C of the statutes creating the commission and then fearing that this might not be strong enough he has added to his bill the following note: "And the state board known as tax commission wholly abolished."

Assemblyman Laing of Waukesha county has introduced a bill of interest to the patrons of interurban lines. It provides that the railroad commission is authorized to require any interurban railway in this state to issue commutation or monthly tickets and to fix the rules for the issue of the same. The issuance of such tickets, when authorized by the railroad commission, shall not be considered discriminatory. Senator Bosshard has introduced a bill to prohibit common law marriages hereafter. His measure legalizes all common law marriages during the past year, but prohibits those of the future.

They had been planning to celebrate their golden wedding in November.

MAY INTERN CRUISER AT NEWPORT NEWS

German Auxiliary Cruiser Puts Into American Harbor for Coal and Supplies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Newport News, Va., March 10.—The German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Frederick arrived here today presumably for coal and supplies. She also is said to be in need of repairs and may intern here. She is reported to have 326 French and Russian prisoners of war aboard.

Arrived Last Night.

The Prinz Eidel Frederick arrived off the Virginian cape last night, but did not enter Hampton Roads until this morning, when she steamed up to Old Point Comfort, and after complying with quarantine regulations proceeded to this city, where she dropped anchor shortly before ten o'clock.

Much secrery lovered her movements and further than that she was in urgent need of coal and provisions and also repairs, nothing could be learned as to the cause of her stop here. One report which was unconfirmed has it that the big steamer was chased to the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay by a British cruiser.

Question of Repairs.

Washington, March 10.—A telegraphic request from the Newport News Shipbuilding company for the decision upon whether the United States would object to the concern making repairs on the Eidel Frederick was at once referred to the neutrality board acting for the state, war and navy department, which also will take up the question of what allowances of time shall be made to the German ship if she does not intend to remain in port.

Prinz Eidel's Career.

The auxillary cruiser Prinz Eidel Frederick started on her career as a warship from Tsing Tau. She formerly was a regular liner of the North German Lloyd. She reached Tsing Tau shortly after the outbreak of hostilities and the German marine authorities of that port equipped her with naval guns and turned her into an auxillary cruiser.

She sailed from Tsing Tau before the Japanese attacked that fort and early in November she was reported off the western coast of South America, where for several months she has been active in the pursuit of British and French shipping. One of her exploits was the sinking early in December of the British steamer Charcass, off Chili. Japanese cruisers have been described as searching for this German vessel, but they could never find her.

MEXICAN SOLDIERS DROWNED IN MAIN

Force of Gen. Obregon Tried to Capture Water Supply and Meet Death in Attempt.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mexico City, March 10.—Two hundred men of General Obregon's command were drowned in the water main leading out to the suburban sources of Mexico City's water supply in a recent attempt to get to rear of the Zapatista forces.

When the Zapatistas were compelled to evacuate the capital a few weeks ago, they retired to the suburb of Xochimilco and seized the sources of the city's water supply, making the capital dependant on artesean wells and a small reservoir in a park near Chapultepec Castle. The unflushed sewers, due to the fact that a scarcity of water made it unwise to use it for anything than drinking purposes, seriously menaced the health of the city. General Obregon made many attempts to recapture the main sources of the water supply in the old Indian town of Xochimilco, but all of them were repulsed by Zapata's men. A daring raid was finally decided upon, for which General Obregon detached 200 of his men. He ordered them to drop into the mains which had long been dry, and to attempt to travel through them to an opening at the rear of Zapata's main position. A spy informed the latter general of the ruse and after the men had been allowed to travel some distance in the mains, the full force of the water was turned on, drowning the invading force to a man.

BRAY MAKES ATTACK ON ACKLEY MEASURE

Declares Water Power Bill Does Not Protect the Interests of the Public.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., March 10.—That the Ackley water power bill does not protect the public interests was the contention of Senator Bray of Oshkosh in appearing before the conservation committee of the legislature yesterday afternoon. Bray's argument covered practically the whole afternoon. He was opposed to the doctrine which he though the bill enunciated in declaring that the riparian owner had and owned the energy in the flowing water. He read at length from decisions in support of his contention.

Bray pointed out that under the present water power law the penalty for maintaining obstructions in or across navigable waters is $50 a day and the proposed bill permits a fine of not less than $1 a day. Among the waterpower men who will appear on this bill this afternoon are Neal Brown of Wausau; Daniel W. Mead, Madison; George Lines, Milwaukee, and T. W. Brazeau, Grand Rapids.

RED CROSS ASKS FOOD FOR MEXICO

MEXICAN SOCIETY APPEALS TO AMERICANS FOR AID IN RELIEVING STARVING POPULACE OF MEXICO CITY.

STATEMENT OF DANIELS

Secretary of Navy Recounts Strength of United States Atlantic Squadron Which May Have Significant Meaning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 10.—The Mexican Red Cross today appealed to the American Red Cross, through Secretary Bryan, for food for the starving populace in Mexico City. The appeal said the famine in the Mexican capital was rapidly growing worse. Secretary Bryan said the state department would co-operate with the Red Cross as far as possible.

Miss Mabel T. Boardman of the American National Red Cross consulted with Secretary Bryan and Counselor Lansing of the state department today in regard to the Mexican relief. There are many practical difficulties and it was decided to await further information from Mexico City before taking final steps.

The advisability of inviting some other American countries, especially Argentina, Brazil and Chile, to join the United States in the Mexican relief work, was suggested.

Obregon Holds City.

A dispatch from Vera Cruz, dated yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, indicated that General Obregon was still in control of affairs in Mexico City.

Secretary Daniels today issued a statement on the condition of the Atlantic fleet and its auxiliaries now maneuvering in the Mexican gulf and in the Caribbean waters. It was considered significant by some observers of the Mexican situation and follows:

"Never before in the history of our navy has such a powerful fleet been assembled for active service, maneuvers and target practice with guns and torpedoes as that based at Guantanamo, Cuba, for the last two months, under the command of Rear Admiral Fletcher, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet. This force now consists of nineteen battleships and twenty destroyers, with a flagship and a tender.

"Based also on Guantanamo bay is the cruiser squadron consisting of two armored cruisers and seven light cruisers and gunboats, the various units of which have been operating in the vicinity of Haiti, Santo Domingo and the east coast of Mexico.

Ready for Service.

"The vessels comprising this fleet are ready for any service and are accompanied by repair ships, supply ships, and fuel ships carrying coal, oil and supplies for an extended period.

"At Key West the reserve torpedo flotilla consisting of ten destroyers and a tender have been engaged in extended operations.

"At Pensacola six submarines with four tenders have been operating jointly with aircraft, and with the San Francisco, a mine-laying vessel.

"Results of the extended operations in which the above mentioned vessels to the number of eighty-three are engaged cannot fail to be of great benefit to the navy."

Await Carranza's Reply.

General Carranza's reply to the American note demanding an improvement in the "intolerable" conditions for foreigners in territory under his control, was being awaited momentarily by President Wilson and his advisors. They had been advised unofficially that the draft of the reply had been completed and was ready to be forwarded to Washington. It was expected to be favorable.

In the meantime precautionary steps had been taken by the Washington authorities looking to the safeguarding of American interests in Mexico. United States warships were hovering close to the shores of Mexico to enforce, if necessary, compliance with American demands, and American citizens in Mexico City had been warned to leave because of the critical situation there.

Church Conditions Deplorable.

New Orleans, March 10.—Cardinal Gibbons was given a personal report on conditions in Mexico as regards the Catholic church, it became known today, when late yesterday he received in conference here Archbishop Mora y del Rio, head of the church in the southern republic, who recently came to New Orleans from Vera Cruz. The cardinal did not discuss the conference other than to say the archbishop reported all his clergy had been imprisoned and that the situation was deplorable.

Cardinals Gibbons said today he was in correspondence with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan over the situation.

An Early Easter This Year.

Easter comes on the first Sunday in April and that means early Spring business for the stores.

It means the new styles will be ready earlier and that the stores are now in full Spring attire.

Many decided changes in designs and fabrics will be shown this season.

The advertising columns are already telling the story which will grow more interesting from day to day.

To miss the advertising in the Gazette these days will be to miss some of the best news of the paper.

Rural Districts of County Pay $563,637 Against $348,391 of Cities, Special Tax Commission Report Shows.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, March 10.—More taxes are paid by the residents of city than by rural districts, although the true value of the property in rural districts is the more valuable. It is the resident of the city district that pays the high taxes and not the farmer.

Tax Commission Reports.

This is the statistical conclusion of a report that has just been compiled by the state tax commission at the request of members of the legislature. This report shows that the assessment of urban districts is more nearly the true value of the property than the assessment of the rural districts. Local assessors have valued all of the rural property of the state at $1,363,162,491. The true value of this rural property according to the compilations made by the tax commission is $1,733,863,711. The value of all property in cities and incorporated villages in the state is $1,259,502,098, as compiled by the local assessors and the true value of this property is $1,501,213,125 as compiled by the state tax commission. According to the combined reports of the local assessors 48 per cent of all of the assessed property in the state is in urban centers. but according to the true value assessment of the tax commission only 46 per cent of the total assessed property is in cities. The figures of the local assessors are used for the assessment of local taxes, but the true value figures of the tax commission are used for the assessment of state taxes.

Cities Pay More.

The report shows that the rural districts paid in taxes in 1914 the sum of $17,402,770.45 while the urban districts paid during the same period $24,736,452.59, or nearly 50 per cent more taxes than the residents of the rural districts of the state. For the entire state the tax rate for rural property was .01277, while the tax rate for urban districts was .01964. The tax rate for the rural and urban districts compiled on the true value basis, which is considered more comparable by the members of the tax commission, gives an average rural tax for 1914 of .01004 and a rate of .01648 for the urban districts. The conclusion of this report is that the high taxes are paid by city residents rather than rural residents. These tax tables are now in the hands of the legislators.

According to the rural assessment figures of 1914, the value of rural property in Douglas county is $7,241,393, and the value of urban property is $39,590,586. Eighty-five per cent of all assessed property in Douglas county is in urban centers. The true value figures of the tax commission give an assessment of the rural districts in this county as $11,913,718 and of urban districts as $54,034,798. The total taxes paid by the rural centers of Douglas county was $204,569 as compared with $947,825 for the year 1914.

Of the total value of property in La Crosse county $11,468,198 is in rural districts and $25,253,866 is in urban centers, and $189,259 is the tax paid by the rural communities and $575,668 is the tax paid by the urban districts.

Rock County's Situation.

The total value of all property in Rock county for 1914 as made by the assessors shows that $38,803,222 was assessed in rural districts and $36,022,288 in urban centers. The true value figures of the tax commission increases the rural assessment to $47,697,218. The rural districts of Rock paid $536,637 and the urban districts $348,391.

In Milwaukee county 93 per cent of all the property in the county is in urban centers, and the rural districts paid a tax of $423,723 in 1914 as compared with a tax of $10,476,931 by the urban districts for the same year. In Brown county, although about 50 per cent of the assessed property is in the rural districts, the urban taxes for the year 1914 were $5444,221 as compared with $300,413 for the rural districts. This indicates that in Brown county the people in the cities pay very much higher taxes than the people in the country districts.

In Fond du Lac County.

In Fond du Lac county the report shows that only 34 per cent of the total assessed value of all property is in urban centers, yet $130,000 more taxes are paid by the urban communities compared with the rural communities. In 1914 the rural communities paid $336,758 as compared with $466,471 paid by the urban communities. In Racine county 68 per cent of all the assessed property in the county is in urban centers, and in Winnebago county 64 per cent is in urban communities. Three times more taxes are paid by urbanites in Winnebago county than by ruralites.

MAKES AN INQUIRY REGARDING BROTHER WHO IS MISSING.

K. W. Lambray of Kalamazoo, Michigan is making inquiries regarding a younger brother, trace of whom has been lost since February 22nd, last. The person wanted is twenty-five years of age and for some months had been trying to work his way westward. Lambray is known to have come to Janesville on Feb. 18th, to find work, and four days later shipped his suitcase and overcoat by express to his brother in Kalamazoo. Information regarding the whereabouts of the young man would be greatly appreciated by K. W. Lambray, 815 Vine Place, Kalamazoo, Mich.

COUNCIL PROVIDES FOR REMOVING CARP

Dead Fish That Clog North River Street Raceway Will Not Be Allowed to Menace Public Health.

Commissioner P. J. Goodman introduced a resolution, which was passed by the council at their meeting yesterday afternoon, providing for the removal of the dead carp and fish in the raceway on North River street, in the interests of public health. An investigation was made this week of the conditions in the raceway, and it was decided that immediate action was necessary before the fish had time to decompose and become a public menace.

Before warm weather has had an opportunity of decaying the bodies, which are now in a frozen condition, street employes will remove the fish frim the raceway and dispose of them. At the guard gates at the Blodgett mill thousands of these carp have congregated, and they have also collected in other parts of the race. It is expected the fish will be given to farmers for use as fertilizer.

City Treasurer George W. Muenchow submitted his report for the month of February, which was accepted and ordered filed. The total balance in the city treasury at the end of the month was $220,042.66. The balances in the other important funds were as follows: School, $10,682.46; general, $24,635.47; fire and water, $19,664.57; lighting, $14,057.45; library, $4,636.91; bridge, $6,833.80; First ward, $9,330.85; Second ward, $7,519.56; Third ward, $7,9544.64; Fourth ward, $3,555.74; Fifth ward, $2,418.

The petition of John C. Karberg to transfer the saloon license to E. J. Bolger was granted. The bonds submitted by Bolger were approved and the transfer made. Bolger was recently called before Police Chief Champion and Mayor Jas. A. Fathers, at which time a strict understanding of the saloon laws was reached.

The petition of Joseph Croak for the transfer of the saloon license for the liquor shop on South Main street to Thomas F. Abbott and Thomas F. Siege, was granted. The bonds of the new owners were approved.

COST OF OPERATING CITY STONE CRUSHER

Saving Accomplished By City In Operating Crusher for Obtaining Paving Material.

City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund this morning compiled figures on the cost of operation of the stone crusher owned by the city, from which is supplied crushed stone for the street department. In the summer of 1914 the crusher was operated for about three months, during which time a total of 3,195.5 cubic yards of crushed stone was turned out and used for macadam work. The total cost of operating the crusher amounted to $2,818.01 and the stone cost the city 88.1 cents per cubic yard. The saving was accomplished through the careful planning of the season's work and operating the crusher steadily until sufficient stone was obtained for all the paving.

In 1913 a total of 5,093 cubic yards of crushed stone was turned out at a cost of $1.22 per cubic yard. This year the crusher was operated at irregular intervals, causing the extreme expense. The city officials are uncertain to what extent the plant will be run this year, depending on the amount of pavement construction and amount of repair work. At present the council has ordered asphalt macadam pavements on Wisconsin and Bluc streets, and it is probable that the contractors who will be awarded the work will use the Janesville stone.

Extensive repair work is under consideration and being planned by Superintendent of Streets P. J. Goodman which will require crushehd stone.

BOAG WILL NOT RUN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Takes Too Much Time From Business Beloit Man's Reason for Not Being a Candidate.

C. Wesley Boag of Beloit, who was a Janesville visitor this morning, stated that he was not a canddate for re-election to a place on the Rock county board of education, of which he is now president, at the election in April. Press of business duties, which require his constant attention, made it impossible for him to devote his time to the school work, Mr. Boag said.

Mr. Boag was anxious to have it understood that his refusal to be a candidate was not because he was not in thorough sympathy with the system which provides for the county school boards. "The present board of education law, with all its defects, is a step in the right direction," he said. "The rural schools are the most vital and the most neglected factors in our educational system. They should be improved and strengthened in every way possible since they are the foundation upon which the other elements of our educational scheme rest. And yet it is a fact that they are given the least attention. Here in Rock county it is a fact that our rural schools are below the average for the state."

Much of the work of the board in this county during the past year, Mr. Boag said, had been concerned with school district boundaries which are badly tangled and in need of immediate readjustment. It was only one of the conditions which indicate the need for thorough-going reform in favor of country school improvements.

As far as has been learned, no candidates have appeared for the position which Mr. Boag will vacate.

Yesterday's Market.

Chicago, March 10.—Colorado-Mexicanned wooled lambs at $10 yesterday were within 10c of top a week ago, the highest day since May, 1912.

Dwindling receipts at all the outside markets and improvement in dressed mutton trade are reasons for the good prices.

Yesterday's hog market reacted 5c from low time of the morning on good buying by Armour. Best sold at $7 and packing droves cost $6.82@6.94.

Cattle trade was demoralized in every sense of the word yesterday. Heavy bullocks sold 40@50c below last week's best prices. Prospects of heavy receipts today was a bear factor.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $6.88, against $6.91 Monday, $6.82 a week ago, $8.69 a year ago, $8.73 two years ago and $6.81 three years ago.

Calf Receipts Heavy.

Fancy 705-lb. steers and heifers topped yesterday's cattle market at $8.75. "Big" 1,415-lb. steers sailed at $7.50, or 50c below last week's high time. Light cattle showed least decline. Season's largest calf run—3,500—caused 25c break. Quotations:

Choice to fancy steers	$7.60@8.80
Poor to good steers	5.80@7.50
Young steers, fair to fancy	6.75@8.75
Fat cows and heifers	4.65@7.70
Canning cows and heifers	3.40@4.60
Native bulls and stags	4.60@6.75
Poor to fancy veal calves	6.00@9.75

Armour's Hogs Cost $8.87.

Armour's drove of 245-lb. hogs cost $6.87 yesterday, or 4c lower than Monday and 29c higher than a week ago. Receipts at 26,000 were beyond all expectations. Quality good. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$6.80@6.95
Heavy butchers and shipping	6.85@6.95
Light butchers, 190@230 lbs	6.85@7.00
Light bacon, 145@190 lbs	6.80@6.95
Heavy packing, 260@400 lbs	6.60@6.80
Mixed packing, 200@250 lbs	6.70@6.85
Rough, heavy packing	6.40@6.55
Poor to best pigs, 60@135 lbs	5.75@6.80
Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head	5.90@6.40

Sheep and lambs firm and prices unevenly higher, bulk 15@25c up. Wooled lambs mostly $9.60@9.90 and shorn largely at $8.25@8.40. Quotations:

Lambs, common to fancy	$8.10@10.00
Lambs, poor to good culls	7.25@ 8.00
Yearlings, poor to best	7.75@ 8.90
Wethers, poor to fancy	7.10@ 8.00
Ewes, inferior to choice	5.15@ 7.75
Bucks, common to choice	5.25@ 6.15

MADISON EXCURSION NOW ARRANGED FOR

Rock County Boys Who Finished in Commercial Club Corn Contest to Enjoy Trip, March 19.

The long promised trip to Madison for the boys who finished in the Janesville Commercial club's corn contest last fall, is about to be realized. Friday, March 19, is the date decided upon for the excursion and it is anticipated that every boy eligible will be on hand to be the guests of the Commercial club for the day. The time will be spent at the university grounds, where the college of agriculture will be visited, and talks will be given by several of the instructors. There will be time for a glimpse at the state historical library and possibly for a hurried visit to the new state capital. It will be a "red letter" day for the boys, who have been looking forward to the event for over a year. The trip has been deferred until this late date owing to the quarantine regulations made necessary as a result of the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease

EXTEMPORE TALKS RUN ON NEW BASIS

Clubs at High School Are Taking Charge of Preliminaries This Year.—Many Students Are Exempt.

Extemporaneous speaking at the high school is being run on a different basis this year. Instead of speaking at classes where the students recite, eight clubs formed this year at the institution are in complete charge and only those members of the eight clubs can participate in the preliminaries for the extempore medal, awarded annually. Under this new scheme, many students will be exempt from entering the contest, most of them being freshmen and sophomores.

The names of the eight clubs in the school this year, all of which were organized early in the first semester, are as follows: Senior Boys' club; Junior Boys' club; Agricultural club for senior boys and junior boys; Senior Girls' English club; Shakespeare club for senior and junior girls; the "Gale," a club composed of junior girls; German and Latin clubs, composed of every German and Latin student in the school. Every junior and senior must belong to at least one club, and if a student has good standings, he or she may become a member of one or more clubs. Every club is composed of small groups, so that the work derived in any club is worth while. The extempore finals will be held some time in April, along with the annual Medal contest, which event follows the Easter vacation.

MINNESOTA PLANS TO RECLAIM MILLION ACRES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Bemidji, Minn., March 10.—One million dollars will be sent in Beltrami and adjoining counties by the state of Minnesota this spring, to reclaim 1,000,000 acres of land, which if free of water, would be among the most fertile. State land experts estimate that the value of the reclaimed land during 1915 will be $6,000,000, but that before the end of 10 years, will be $100,000,000. This estimate by the state experts is based upon statistics of other land value increased in Minnesota.

The majority of this land to be reclaimed is in the Northern part, or adjoining the Northern part of Beltrami county, which in itself, is 156 miles long. Some of the strip to be reclaimed extents over to St. Louis county, which is larger than the combined area of Connecticut and Rhode Island.

The scheme for reclamation of this land, at present a continuous swamp of several hundred miles breath, includes the division of the vast expense into sections, each section to be divided by roads, at the side of which is a deep drianage ditch. These ditches at every four sections meet and the object of the flow is to get flow into Red Lake, the second largest inland lake, entirely within the United States, in the nation.

HAVE NO INFORMATION TO INDENTIFY DEAD MAN.

The body of the unknown tramp, found on the embankment near the Northwestern railroad tracks, south of Janesville is still unidentified at Nelson's undertaking rooms and there is small hopes that his name can be learned or the means by which he met his death. This morning a letter received through the postoffice regarding a missing man, was investigated but no information gained as the description did not fit. Several inquiries have been received but all are descriptions of a larger man.

Members of the section gang, who discovered the body report that the morning they left South Janesville and noticed the clothes on the bank, that they were riding on an engine and all were under the impression that it was only a few rags that had been discarded by tramps. Investigation was made among the trainmen to ascertain if the man had not been struck by a brakeman while stealing a ride. There was no evidence gained to bear out this theory by Sheriff Del Chamberlain or District S. G. Dunwiddie.

STATISTICS OF LOSS OF FORESTS FIRES IS ESTIMATED BY EXPERT.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, March 10.—Fire on the national forests in the west last year cost the government 340,000,000 board feet of merchantile timber, valued at $307,000, and of reproduction, or young growth of trees, valued at $192,000, according to statistics just compiled by the forest service. There were 6,605 fires. In addition to the government loss, timber on state and private lands within the forests, totaling 228,500,000 board feet and valued at $175,000 was lost.

Notwithstanding that it was an exceptionally bad year for fires, on account of high temperature, heavy winds and prolonged drought, the average loss per fire was only $103, as against $131, in 1911, when there were only about half as many fires. Eighty five percent of the total loss was caused by fires in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington, where more than half the timber in all the national forests stands. Less than one tenth of one percent of this timber was affected.

Lightning was the chief cause, starting 2,032 fires. campers came next with 1,126; followed closely by railroad locomotives with 1,110. Incendiaries lighted 470 and the rest attributed to brush burning, sawmills or to unknown causes.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX WILL HAVE TEAM OF SPEEDY YOUNGSTERS

Average Age of Players is Twenty-five Years.—Picked Team Under Twenty-three Year Average.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Diego, California, March 10.—Youth and speed will predominate on the White Sox team of 1915 if Manager Rowland strings along with his present regulars. If Rowland picks Scott to pitch the opening contest in St. Louis on April 14 the Chicago club will go on the field with a team averaging 25 years young? Only three of the regulars, Eddie Collins, Shano Collins, and Scott, are over the 24 years mark, and the first named pair are the fastest men on the squad.

Even if Rowland makes a few shifts, the 25 years average may still hold. Of the regulars, Brief at first base is 24; E. Collins, 27; J. Collins, 28; Weaver, 23; Bromwich, 24; Chappell, 24; Felch, 21; Schalk, 23, and Scott, 29. Should Fournier, who is 23, displace Brief, or Breton (23 get the nomination over Bromwich—and these seem to be the only possible shifts—the Sox will loom up a bit younger, but no faster.

From now on Rowland will devote much time to picking the right man for the lead-off position. Last season this honor was heaped on Weaver. Chappell is doing the first up trick at present, but the manager may decide later to drop Larry to fourth or fifth place and send Buck to the top. Larry is a stranger to the lead-off role.

Collins Placed.

Whatever shifts are made, none will affect the two Collins. Third place has been wished upon Eddie, and "Shano" will clout from the clean-up position just behind. Owing to the dearth of left handed batters Rowland will find it hard to arrange the line-up in such a way as to secure some evenly balanced battery strength.

The southpaw swatters are Fournier, Demmitt, Weaver, E. Collins and Chappell, exclusive of the pitchers. Only three of the hurlers are left handed—namely, Cicotte, Faber and Russell.

Fournier and Demmitt are with the Goofs, so the first team has only three portside clubbers, Eddie Collins, Chappell and Weaver. Buck is a two-way batter, equally effective right and left handed.

Rowland hopes to have "Reb" Russell in condition to pitch this year, as he did during the season of 1913. The Texan has struck to his knitting in great shape, and barring a slight complaint during the stop at Paso Robles has not been heard to utter a kick against the seeming hardships imposed upon him by the manager. "Lefty" Scroggins, the Lincoln rookie, who is another Texas product, has made a favorable impression, but seems to be a few degrees shy of major league ability. He is a mere youngster, however and may develop.

Pull for Felch.

Every mebmer of the first troupe is pulling for "Hap" Felch to make good. No one in the party is more enthusiastic over the German's chances than Ray Schalk, himself a former member of the Milwaukee Brewers. Ping Bodie in his wildest moments never took a healthier swing than does "Hap", who is a good natured cuss. He is fast in the field and can go a long way for a ball. Felch will fill the job left vacant by the dropping of Bodie, according to the general opinion in the camp.

Hard work has wrought some wondrous changes in Larry Chappell, who reported twenty pounds over eight. After two weeks of hard plugging Larry looks better than he came to the Sox two years ago. His damaged foot is O. K. and under the new administration Larry promises to play some baseball. Brief seems to have clinched his grip on first, but there still is a race between Bromwich and Breton for the steady assignment on third.

Benz Was Sick.

Pitcher Joe Benz does not expect to be of much value to his teammates until the championship season has advanced to a point around July 1.

The reason is that Joe still feels the effect of typhoid fever, which wracked his system and his pocketbook during the winter. Now that he is on the road toward recovery, Benz hardly knows which suffered most. He does know that his city series money and nearly $2,000 besides succumbed to the illnesss.

To Joe's credit, he does not begrudge the impounding of his share of 1914 city series coin, which amounted to $555 for it went to the two trained nurses who contributed their care to his successful fight against the dread typhoid.

When the main guard of Rowland's contingent arrived here they saw a sorry looking Benz, instead of their sturdy comrade of last summer. The Batesville butcher boy was haggard and drawn. He had the fire of ambition but little strength to back it up. The sunny days at Paso Robles helped some and it was there that Benz told the story of his sickness and the lightening of his bankroll.

Pete Standridge, the new Chicago club pitcher, declares his "fork ball" is an upshoot, and Rus Robbins, another recruit, declares a pitcher does not need control. With that sort of talent to pick from the 21-man limit does not seem a hardship.

EIGHT TEAMS ENTER MILTON TOURNAMENT

Janesville, Jefferson, Stoughton and Edgerton Look Like Teams for Semi-Finals at Big Meet.

The Milton College tournament management has been able to secure eight teams to compete in the third annual basketball tourney, to be held next week at the special Milton College gymnasium, beginning Wednesday afternoon and closing Thursday night. The schools sending teams are: Janesville, Edgerton, Jefferson, Fort Atkinson, Hartland, Neillsville, Stoughton and Milton. Of these Janesville, Edgerton, Jefferson and Stoughton look like the four strongest. Neillsville and Hartland are unknown qualities. Jefferson has trimmed Fort Atkinson, while Janesville has trimmed both Stoughton and Jefferson.

There will be eight games played. The tourney will be run off in the same manner as at Lawrence, excepting that Lawrence takes three days. The elimination contests come on Wednesday afternoon and evening, when the four strongest teams will be pitted against the four weakest. Thursday afternoon the semi-finals will be played, with the finals coming at night.

Janesville is enthusiastic over the tourney, but is down-hearted because Evansville refused to enter. It is predicted that Janesville will make a strong showing. If the local team can win this tournament, it is possible that an elimination contest for the state meet will not be necessary.

Petitions are in circulation among the students and outsiders, for a special train to the meet on Thursday night. Over 250 signers are necessary to warrant a special train. The afternoon games will be called at 2:30 o'clock, while the evening contests will be commenced at seven o'clock. The pairings for the first games will be given later.

MORRIS MILLER

The jumping of Austin and Perritt from the Pittsburgh Feds has played havoc with that team's chances in the coming race. Rebel Oakes, manager of this team, has been busy all winter signing these two players, who he believed would fill the weak spots on his team. Now Oakes is little better off than he was last season.

Joe Benz, it is said, has become a golfer, but you couldn't convince a golfer who has seen him on the links.

John McGraw now has forty players in training at Marlin Springs and three men on the list have not yet reported. Having to live up to the rule which restricts every team's roster to twenty-one men by May 1, the leader of the Giants is going to have a busy time of it reaching his prescribed allotment. No other club is taking as many players south, but McGraw realizes that there is ample room for improvement of his team and for this reason he has gathered about him as many youngsters as he could find in the hope of obtaining a player or two who will be of help to his team.

Ed Murphy's presence in Tampa is merely a coincidence. He has no more to do with the Cubs than the kaiser has to do with Germany.

Bill Donovan is making his charges work but once a day. There is nothing for the players to do during the morning, but there is plenty of work when the sun is hottest in the afternoon. Donovan says that it has been his experience that the players go reluctantly to the grounds in the afternoon if they have worked in the morning. He proposes to get all the work out of them in one sitting, and that appears to be a good system.

Glancing over the sporting page we note the publication of a weekly serial entitled "Frank Baker Is Coming Back." The serial will continue until baseball scribes are afflicted with writers' cramp.

Frank Baker is keeping in condition by playing with the high school team at Trappe, Md. How would you like to be the pitcher for the Trappe (Md.) high school team?

Joe Tinker, boss of the Chicago Whales, is retiring from baseball as a shortstop. Joe says nineteen-year-old James Smith, who starred for Duquesne university, will step into his shoes at short. Tinker will switch himself over to second base. During his long career as a major leaguer, Tinker always has played short.

Fritz Von Kolnitz, one of the last to report last spring, was about the first to reach Alexandria this time. He has decided, despite his legal aspirations, to stick to baseball for a while. "Had some extremely hard luck in my law practice," he explained. "You see, I've built up quite a clientele among the mountain feudists—had the business of one fighting clan—and was doing very well with them. But during last summer—just my miserable luck—the other side developed some wonderfully clever sharpshooters, and when I got back from the summer circuit I hadn't any clients left."

CINCINNATI "REDS" ARE BADLY TORN-UP BY DISCARD METHODS

Charley Herzog With His 'Old Brain' Will Pilot "Young Brawn" to Make Better Standing.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cincinnati, March 10.—"Old brains and young brawn"—the same being the combination that Manager Charles Herzog will apply to the 1915 Reds in the expectation of making a better showing then last year.

It must be said that Herzog's calm confidence consists of something more than a gimmer. Not many ball clubs, if any, have been so thoroughly torn up between seasons as the Reds—present make-up, contrasted with that sorry squad which finished last in 1914.

A score of players have been discarded, or lost to the club through the activity of the Feds, Twenty-six men, including Herzog, will report at the spring training camp in Alexandria, La.

Have Ten Pitchers.

Of these, 10 are pitchers. Four others are catchers. That leaves an even dozen, from which an infield and outfield must be drawn.

Herzog is very sure that he has turned the corner with his brigade now that he has signed Tommy Leach, Charley Dooin, late of the Phillies, and Ivy Wingo, the lanky Georgian who was lost to the Cardinals because he would not play under Miller Huggins.

Veterans Back.

Leach and Dooin will fill a lack in the department of experience, keenly felt last season. Tommy will lead off in the batting order and Dooin, promises Herzog, will catch most of the games.

Wingo probably will be played regularly in the outer precincts because of his steady noodle and ability with the stick. The club has need of a hitting first baseman. Mollowitz will develop into a corking good man, Herzog believes, but his batting eye is lamentably weak.

Herzog at Short.

Herzog will play short again, and Heine Groh will be at second. The possession of the third station will be fought out between Von Kolnitz and Ivan Olson, the former Nap.

With Tommy Leach and Wingo backing 'em up regularly in the suburbs and Twombly, Killifer and Griffith alternating, the outfield really takes on the semblance of something akin to Hope.

Have the Spirit.

"I have succeeded in one thing," says Herzog, "and that is, I have at the same time last year. We'll have the spirit, and we'll have young fellows who aren't averse to taking advice from players older in the game."

Of the young blood, which comes to the Reds practically un-tested, one of the not promising samples is C. R. Brown, from the Southern Association. He led that organization last season.

New Players.

Knight, from Ogden, also a pitcher, is rated a steady youngster.

Griffith, who played with Indianapolis in the American Association last year, is a good hitter, as also is Sheehan, contributed by Terre Hautes.

Of course the Reds need more pitching material of class Douglass, Schneider, Ames and Lear are being looked to as the chief performers. Sayre, an Eastern college prospect, comes with a brightly burnished reputation. It looks as though Rube Benton would be traded for Wingo, that matter never having been settled.

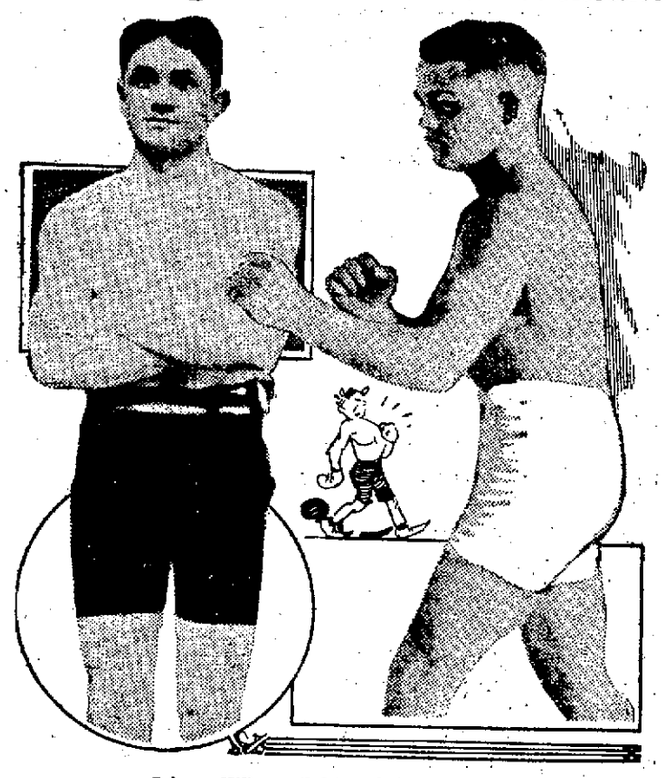

"With Tommy Leach directing the outfield, and Dooin in charge behind the bat, I can see where I shall have invaluable help in creating a machine which will give an accounting of itself," Herzog says. "Watch it."

Harry Davis.

Harry Davis, veteran outfielder, it is announced, will be captain of the Athletics this coming season. He succeeds Ira Thomas, who will take charge of the Mack pitching staff. Davis was captain for several years before he became manager of the Cleveland Americans in 1912. For the last two years he has been coaching the Athletic players. The Athletics are now in Florida for their spring training.

Physical Advantage With Kilbane In Coming Bout With Kid Williams

Johnny Kilbane (left) and Kid Williams.

Johnny Kilbane is said to regard his coming bout with Kid Williams of Baltimore as likely to be the easiest won big money that ever came his way. The bout on St. Patrick's day will add $5,500 to the wealth of the featherweight champ. And Kilbane is confident that it will be no job at all to put Kid Williams out of business.

Williams and his manager Sammy Harris, have been counting a whole lot on the fact that Kilbane is forced

THE MEASUREMENTS.

Kilbane.	Williams.
122 pounds.	Weight. 121 pounds

10½ in.	Forearm. 10.4 in.
18 inches.	Thigh. 19 inches
12½ inches.	Calf. 13 inches

to do 122 ringside. But they are going to be surprised to find that Kilbane will make this weight without trouble.

Like many others, Williams and Harris have been fooled by Johnny's height and shoulder development. In shoulders and chest the feather king has the build of a lightweight, but he has remarkably small legs and arms, and making 122 ringside is a cinch. In fact the Clevelander never goes above 125 pounds when not in training.

Williams really does not appear to class with Kilbane over the six-round distance. In the first place the Baltimore star is five inches shorter than Kilbane and he has a reach of only 63 1-5 inches, while Kilbane's reach is 68½ inches. So here is Williams five inches shorter than his rival and with a reach five inches shorter. Add to this that Kilbane is the cleverest featherweight in the world today and you'll see that the bantam champion has practically no chance to win from Johnny.

Williams is by no means a clever boxer. He rushes in, slamming away with both hands.

And he does not cover up. He's easy to hit, and wins because he is fast enough and game enough to force his way to close quarters.

Williams has been beating the bantams because he had no trouble in cornering them, and once cornered they stood slight chance against his battering.

But while Williams could corner the bantams, he's going to find it a tough job to get close to Kilbane.

And even when he does succeed in fighting his way to close range work he's going to find he's up against a man who knows just as much about this style as milling. Moreover, Johnny hits just as hard and he hits a good deal faster and is a better judge of distance.

Maybe Williams will uncork a surprise, but from this angle it seems he is in for a lacing for which there will be that $5,500 financial balm.

FOES IN SERIES NOW TEAMMATES.

When the St. Louis Federals reach Havana, Eddie Plank will have the pleasure of meeting once again Charlie Deal, who scored the only run against him in the second game of the world's series.

More than likely the players will argue as to whether Strunk should have caught that two-bagger and whether Deal's steal of third base was not a bit of arrant luck.

Deal will take the negative side on each of these questions.

There seems nothing to do now but to match Vernon Castle against Freddie Welsh and bring the title back to America. Charlie White held Welsh even on the fox trot and the tango, but lost on points in the lumdado.

AMERICAN BOWLING MEET OPENS TODAY AT PEORIA, ILLINOIS

Tournament of National Scope Opens This Evening at the Coliseum With Five Men Team Events.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Peoria, Ill., March 10.—All was in readiness today for the opening of the American Bowling congress this evening. Fourteen new alleys were in place in the Coliseum and fourteen five-men teams, the Leisy Juniors, of Peoria, numbered 1 to 14, were ready to take the drives at 8:30 p. m. Mayor Edward N. Woodruff, who is a member of one of the Leisy Junior teams was scheduled to bowl the first ball. These will be the only teams on the alleys the opening night.

Doubles and individuals will be on the card until the evening of the second day when the first out of town five, the Connor's Kids of Springfield, Ill., begin shooting at the maples.

Saturday, March 5, will see the arrival of visiting bowlers in force. On that day Streator, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Rockford, Ill., Aurora, Ill., and Chicago men will have the alleys. On Sunday, March 6, bowling will begin at 8:30 a. m., and the alleys will be crowded until midnight.

Bowling is scheduled until March 30. Included in the entries are the names of more than 8,000 men.

"The tournament promises to be one of the best in the history of the association and I expect to see record breaking scores," said Secretary A. L. Langtry today.

GAME WITH MILTON CALLED OFF TODAY

President Daland of College Team Refuses to Allow His Players to Come to Janesville Tonight.

The contest scheduled for this evening in the new Y. M. C. A. gymnasium between the first association five and the Milton College All-Stars, has been called off. A telephone communication between President Daland of Milton college and Physical Director Leak this morning, resulted in the college head refusing to allow his players to play here tonight, claiming that it was against the rules of the school to allow the students to play out of the city, unless the school arranged the game.

Mr. Leak will refund the price of the tickets sold, or allow the holders of the tickets to be admitted to the game Saturday night against Geneva City. There will be a game tonight, however, between the first and second association fives. This game will be commenced at seven-fifteen for the benefit of those wishing to attend the debate at eight o'clock at the high school.

THE UNIVERSITY.

Talk as we may, one of the problems the present state administration must settle before the legislature adjourns is the university and its funds. For years past it has been the custom for the university lobby to crowd the corridors of the capital and insist upon certain appropriations for this purpose or that, and the chances were ten to one they received them. There has been no careful budget prepared, no careful report placed on file to show just how this money donated was actually expended and university instructors and professors have been on the payroll of the state as members of the university faculty and also as employes of various commissions in the role of expert advisors. This is not in single, isolated cases, but in many. The university has controlled the state government for its own purposes, that of increasing its appropriations and raising the tax levy higher and higher each year. The acme of their delight came when they secured the passage of the one mill tax, and this law enabled them to further pursue their course of educating the people to higher taxes so that their income might be greater.

The Evening Wisconsin goes into the question of the university accounting by saying:

"It is impossible to review the setting forth of University of Wisconsin affairs submitted by Doctor William H. Allen, director of the recent survey, without concluding that the first of his recommendations should receive prompt attention—the legislature should insist upon lucid reports before voting funds for the university for the next two years.

"Financial responsibility, which burdens most of the members of the human race, seems to rest lightly upon those in charge of the state university. All they have had to do in the past seems to have been to provide receptacles and catch a golden shower. When practical questions regarding the cost of carrying on the institution have been proposed, answers have been cloudy and baffling. No wonder that legislators and the public could not get exact information, if, as ex-Regent Trottman complains, such information was not available even to the regents. Doubt has been cast upon the probability that the amounts of different university expenses were known even to the managers themselves. There has been so far no satisfactory answer as to the cost of education per capita. There is dispute as to the division of expense between the instructional work of the university and the research work. Singularly shifty practices have been pointed out in the methods of those who have argued with members of the legislature when the university wanted appropriations, emphasis being laid upon the increased number of students when there was a demand for a liberal appropriation, but the cost of accommodating additional students being represented as trifling when the discussion turned upon whether self-sustaining fees should be required of students coming from outside the state.

"The taxpayers of Wisconsin are not fairly treated when their hard-earned dollars are taken from them to support a vast institution like the university and they are furnished no intelligible account of the disposition of the money. The airing which the loose business methods of the university have received of late has been a good thing, and the knowledge now in possession of the legislators should make them as firm as steel in enforcing the requirement of lucid accounting for every dollar that the university receives from the state."

It looks as though the wily Turk was at last going to get out of Europe once and for all. There will be no powers later on to give him back Constantinople and the cross will wave where the crescent has so long fluttered.

HONOR WELL CONFERRED.

In its closing hours congress saw fit to honor men who have given their best to the advancement of the nation's interests, by promotions in their chosen line of government service. The Chicago Daily News says in commenting upon the fact, that Colonel George W. Goethals has been promoted to be a major-general for his work in building the Panama canal, and his army and navy assistants have been given increased rank as a reward for the faithful services performed by them. Of these men the best known to the public is Dr. William C. Gorgas, chief medical officer of the Canal Zone, who is advanced from the rank of brigadier-general to that of major-general at the head of the medical corps of the army. It was due to the magnificent work of Dr. Gorgas that the territory which proved so fatal to the French has become practically a health resort with a death rate much below that of the United States.

Col. H. F. Hodges and Lieut.-Col. William L. Sibert, who have been made brigadier-generals, and Commnader H. H. Rousseau of the navy, who becomes a rear-admiral, brought to the respective positions occupied by them the same trained efficiency and fine service spirit that enabled Goethals and Gorgas to carry the stupendous undertaking to success. It is worthy of remark that these men, though trained for the work of destruction, have performed some of the greatest constructive work ever attempted.

Goethals and Gorgas should be taken as examples by workers in the public service everywhere, civil as well as military. Such public spirit and efficiency as were shown by these men are necessary to the redemption of American commonwealths and American cities from political misrule.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES.

As modified by the senate and passed in congress, the resolution giving power to the president to deal with the improper use of our ports by belligerents, may be taken as a reasonable measure of precaution. Perhaps as originally conceived, it might have given powers which congress should not delegate. There is, however, no cause for alarm to the business world in the resolution as passed.

Convention XIII. of the second Hague conference practically re-enacted what are known as "the Three Rules of Washington." These declare that a neutral must prevent its ports or territories from being made a base for the outfitting of belligerent vessels. This was the principle, in fact, which decided the Alabama case. A fair interpretation would include a merchant vessel loading supplies of any kind for transfer to a belligerent war vessel at sea.

In such case the merchantman would become a tender of the naval vessel. To permit such an act would be unneutral, and would be a good case for damages against the neutral nation. The resolution, in fact, is superfluous, in the respect that there is already a federal statute making it a crime to supply a belligerent vessel in this way. But that act is merely punitive for crime committed, and does not provide for its prevention.

This resolution, therefore, during the recession of congress places that power in the hands of the executive. It does not include an embargo on arms, munitions or food shipped by an individual to a foreign port, or even interfere with the legalized trade in contraband. There is no stretch of constitutional power, nor does the resolution confer unusual or extraordinary powers upon the president, such as he might conceivably require if this country were actually at war.

The effect of the resolution is to give the government power to prevent what our statute law penalizes, and the law of nations forbids.

The blockade of the English ports has thus far resulted in scarcely more more than a paper blockade although some vessels have been sunk. Still ships continue to sail the ocean blue and dare even submarines and floating mines.

Who said that there would be no more snow? However the ground hog's six weeks were not up when it appeared, so his reputation as a weather prophet is not entirely discredited.

Kansas reports that there will be an unusual wheat crop in 1915. There is another one of the old "hard times in Kansas" stories knocked in the head before it can be related.

By many citizens the Sixty-second Congress will be remembered as the one which introduced that income tax puzzle so successfully. Few have thus far been able to solve it.

Uncle Sam may yet get into trouble with Mexico. This watchful waiting problem has not been beneficial to the general welfare of our poor sister republic.

Neutrality bids fair to become highly respected as the time goes along. Later perhaps there may be a re-action, but at present it is quite in vogue.

A German professor has discovered that guinea pigs furnish a cheap and appetizing meat. Nothing like getting down to eating rats.

Some of the Mexican revolutionists have raised the cry, "Mexico for the Mexicans." But the question is, "Which Mexicans?"

Some folks hear the "call of the wild," but the delicate, shell-like ear of William Jennings is listening to the clink of the dollars at the chautauqua circle.

Fooling the Pickpockets.

There are plenty of ways in which to fool the pickpockets, however, clever they may be. Personally we would defy any pickpocket from Chicago, New York or even Paris to get anything out of us. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker and the gentlemen who sell gasoline and repairs tires get ours first. But this may not be the case with all of our citizens.

To fool the pocketbook.

Pay your bills promptly and you will not have anything of value on you.

If you have any money carry it loose in an outside pocket of your coat. A pickpocket never looks there.

If you must wear an expensive $3 watch fob, have a cracker on the other end of it instead of a watch.

Leave all of your jewelry at home in a cracked teapot on a kitchen shelf and let the burglars get it.

Carry a large wallet stuffed with dunning letters in your hip pocket. This is one of the best decoys known. When the pickpocket takes it he will not go any further and you will be saved a lot of trouble in more way than one.

Wouldn't You?

If I had my life to live over again
And could know all the things I know now,
I'd tower with the proudest of my fellow men
And I'd make folks take notice, I vow.
I'd start making money when seven years old,
I would pinch, I would scrape, I would save;
I'd scheme and I'd plan for a fortune untold;
I would work, I would toil, I would slave.
By trickery dark, by deceit and by stealth
I would pile up the gold my life through;
I would sadden the world by the power of my wealth—
And then maybe I wouldn't, would you?

Perhaps I would never take time to enjoy
The enchantments of nature and life,
But would use every moment that I could employ
In the whirl of the money mad strife.
I probably never would have time to feel
A small bit of compassion for those,
I relentlessly crushed 'neath my grim iron heel,
Or to lessen their torture and woes.
It may be I never would find time to gaze
Up to heaven's superb vault of blue,
Or to hear the birds warble their glorious lays,
But I guess that I would, wouldn't you?

If you have anytnting to sell use the wnat ads.

SMUGGLING CATTLE OVER BORDER LINE

South Wayne Man Pleads Guilty Here to Purchasing Quarantined Area Cattle.

E. A. Chapman, a prominent South Wayne, Wis., coal and wood, lumber, feed and grain dealer, and a buyer of hogs, has pleaded guilty before Stanley S. Tallman, federal court commissioner, to the charge of purchasing hogs in quarantine and from a closed area in Illinois, having them delivered to his yards, and later shipping them to Chicago. Chapman was released under $500 bail and will shortly appear in the United States district court at Madison and pay a fine.

The hogs Chapman purchased were smuggled across the Illinois-Wisconsin border line from Stephensen and Jo Davies counties in the first named state. Federal inspectors who have been on patrol of the line for the past three months made the discovery and started the subsequent court proceedings against Chapman. In Commissioner Tallman's court Chapman, although pleading guilty, professed no knowledge that the stock had been brought from the closed area.

It is not known whether or not any more warrants have been issued, but it is said that much blockade running is being attempted. Cases have been found in the southwestern section of Rock county, although to date there have been no arrests or summons made.

Two distinct cases of the foot and mouth disease were discovered by a federal inspector yesterday morning in Green county, in the heard of twenty-nine cattle belonging to Gus Fernstedt. The farm is four and a half miles southwest of Browntown, about a mile from the extreme southwestern corner of the county, three miles northwest of Martintown and about twelve miles from Monroe. Mr. Fernstedt formerly lived on the state lie in Lafayette county in the same neighborhood as Clyde Akins, who lost seventy-three head of cattle and the same number of hogs recently. It is presumed his stock was exposed to the disease before he moved.

The federal inspector condemned the Fernstedt herd yesterday morning upon complaint made by farmers Tuesday.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford is lighter than any other car of its size and power. Yet stronger, sturdier, longer lasting. Vanadium steel, that's why. Vanadium is the hardest, strongest, toughest steel made. It is the only steel that is hard and tough at the same time. It is the highest priced steel that is used in automobile construction. Yet the Ford is very low in price. Its quality, terms, price and small cost of operation and upkeep, less than two cents a mile, have made it the universal necessity in town and country.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915. Runabout, $440; Touring Car $490; Town Car $690; Coupelet $750; Sedan $975. f. o. b. Detroit with all equipment.

YOUNG MAN SUFFERS SERIOUS WOUND IN SHOOTING ACCIDENT

Revolver in Hands of Mrs. Roy McKinney Explodes Injuring Husband, Perhaps Fatally.

Roy McKinney, aged thirty-two years, is in a serious condition at the Mercy hospital from a bullet wound that endangers his life, the result of accidental shooting by his wife, Mrs. Barbara McKinney. The bullet struck its victim in the lower part of his back on the right side, passed near his liver and embedded itself under the flesh of the right side, after smashing a rib.

Shortly after seven last evening Dr. W. A. Munn, and the county jail authorities received a call from the McKinney home which is on a small farm at Riverside, five miles south of Janesville, near "Happy Hollow." When Sheriff Chamberlain, Turnkey W. E. Wogan and Dr. Munn arrived by auto they found the man bleeding badly and suffering from the effects of the revolver shot, but still conscious. He was rushed to Janesville on the interurban car and taken to the hospital where attempts are being made to save his life.

Investigations by both Sheriff Chamberlain and District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie verify the statement of the parties that the shooting was purely accidental and no action is expected to be taken unless the wound is fatal. Mrs. McKinney had been using a small 32-calibre, pearl-handled revolver for shooting at crows in the afternoon and was seated at the dining room table when her husband came home. McKinney is employed at the Heddles tobacco warehouse in Janesville and had gone home on the six o'clock car. His wife had the small revolver in her hands and had started to clean the weapon. As her husband was walking toward the door with a wash-dish filled with water, Mrs. McKinney attempted to "break" the gun at the breech and accidentally pulled the trigger or let the hammer slip. The bullet struck McKinney as he was walking through the door. The sheriff and turnkey found the wash bowl and signs of the spilt water last evening exactly as accounted by both Mr. and Mrs. McKinney.

There was but one exploded shell in the revolver, which was taken by Sheriff Chamberlain. Last night when McKinney was at the hospital District Attorney Dunwiddie questioned the wounded man and his story of the shooting was identical with that of his wife, and declared that he held no blame against her. According to Mrs. McKinney they have had no trouble during the past six months and her husband had not been home only a few minutes when the accident occurred.

The condition of McKinney was very serious this afternoon, hemorrhages being threatened. Last night Dr. Munn took an X-ray photograph of the wound, but this failed to show definitely if the bullet had penetrated the liver or the lower end of the right lung. A large spot on the plate obscured the path of the bullet, caused possibly by the clotting of blood or irritation. The lead is but a short distance from the skin on the right side, and has not been removed. An operation may be performed this afternoon or tomorrow morning. If the lung has been pierced the wound is likely to prove fatal, and such would be the case if any of the other vital organs in a diaphragm are effected. The man's lungs started filling this afternoon and he had considerable trouble in breathing.

DRAFTS ORDINANCE FOR RUNNING PLANT

City Attorney Dougherty Prepares Measure Empowering City to Operate Water Works.

City Attorney William H. Dougherty is drafting an ordinance which will provide legislation for the operation of the Janesville water works plant, under city government when the plant is transferred. The ordinance will be presented at the council meeting on Friday or at the next regular meeting on Tuesday.

The gist of the proposed ordinance is that the board of public works, composed of the mayor and council, with the city engineer shall be the governing body of the water company. Positions and the salaries of other employes necessary in the running of the plant are also specified in the ordinance.

RESULT OF AUTOPSY IS NOT MADE PUBLIC

Rumored that Important Evidence Was Secured By Barron County Officer Investigating Norton Woman's Death.

While no official information could be gained of the findings of Dr. J. F. Pember of this city and Dr. M. H. Hermer and District Attorney Charles A. Taylor of Barron county, in the autopsy conducted over the remains of Mrs. Ella Norton, at Orfordville, yesterday, it is understood that important evidence was secured which will be used against the husband of the woman, who is held for her murder.

The Barron county court has given instructions that information or evidence learned in the examination of the body should be kept secret until the trial of Edward Norton. The examination was made to learn if there were marks on the dead woman's throat, as Norton is accused with choking her to death. It is claimed that such evidence was found.

LIQUOR INTERESTS GET BUSY TO SHOW EXTENT OF TRAFFIC

Call Attention of Legislators That Liquor Business of Wisconsin Amounts to $27,000,000 Yearly.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., March 10.—"That the liquor industry in Wisconsin alone in 1915 will pay in local taxes and licenses, labor and materials, the great sum of $27,227,831.56. These totals do not take into consideration the malting industry, in which alone many millions of dollars annually are paid out in the state, not any of the allied industries such as cooperage, machinery, bottles, carpenters, painters, electricians, ice, freight to railroads, etc."

Shows Extent of Traffic.

This is the statement sent to every member of the legislature by the liquor interests. It calls attention specifically to the extent of the liquor traffic in Wisconsin. The statement says that the local taxes on property used by the trade in this state in 1914 amounted to $1,820,000; that the local license fees paid by the various cities, towns and villages amounted to $2,294,895; that the wages and salaries paid by the manufacturers of malt liuorgs in the state amounted to $4,438,609; that the malt liquor manufacturers paid for materials $7,897,684; and that there will be paid out in internal revenue taxes to the United States government this year approximately $10,841,643.

Following are the bills relating to liquor that are still pending in the legislature:

In the Assembly.

By Frederick—Providing that in case any person licensed to run a saloon, upon a plea of guilty of violation of any excise law or upon nolle contendre thereto, licenses may be revoked. For the second offense the license shall be revoked.

By Frederick — Prohibiting the transportation of liquor into dry territory.

By Johnson—Providing that part of the license money be paid into the county treasury for the relief of the poor.

By Hedon—Prohibiting treating to intoxicating liquors.

By Jenson—Providing for county option.

By Julius Hanson—Providing for the gathering and publication of liquor statistics.

By Frederick—Prohibiting saloons within three-fourths of a mile from the soldiers' home in the town of Wauwatosa.

By Allenbacher—Making the revocation of a liquor license optional with the common council.

In the Senate.

By Monk—Regulating places where dances are held and providing that females of a certain age shall not be allowed to attend unaccompanied by a parent or guardian.

By Mink—Requiring that screens be removed in cafes and saloons.

By Fairchild—Granting liquor licenses to corporations at new locations.

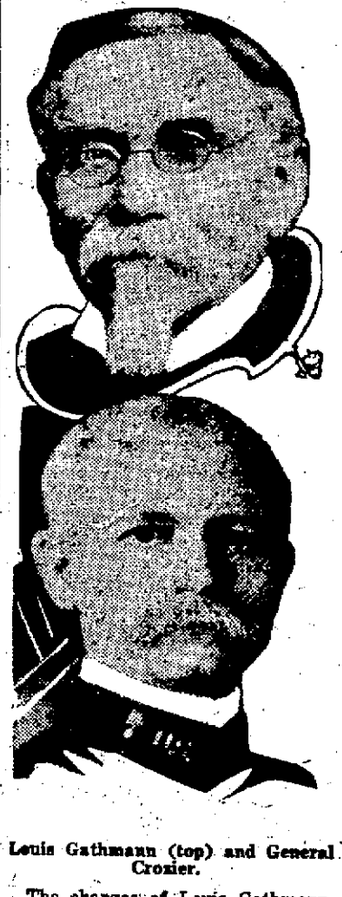

By Stevens—Exempting certain hotels from provisions of the Baker law.

By McGowan—Submitting the question as to whether either beer or whisky shall be sold in the state to a vote of the people at the April election in 1916. If the voters are against the traffic no new licenses will be issued after July 1st, 1916.

A number of liquor bills that have been introduced have either been killed or recommended for indefinite postponement by the committee. The assembly has killed the Ofstie bill requiring saloons to close at 11 o'clock Saturday night and to remain closed until 7 o'clock the following Monday. The Stemper bill changing the date of the Baker law from June 30, 1907, to June 30, 1913, to legalize upwards of 1,000 saloon licenses in the state, has been unfavorably recommended by the assembly committee on excise and fees. The assembly will consider the measure this week. A fight will be made to carry the bill over the committee's unfavorable recommendation.

The assembly has also killed the Ofstie bill forbidding the sale of liquor on Sunday or election day, and providing that two convictions for violation makes revocation of license mandatory. Assemblyman Grell has offered a bill which will permit the sale of liquor on primary day as soon as the polls are closed.

High Class Attractions Coming.

Manager Myers has booked two of the best attractions on road this season to appear at Myers Theatre during the present month. Guy Bates Post will appear in "Omar The Tent-Maker" and Miss May Robson who will be remembered in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" will be seen here in "Martha By-the-Day", a delightfully clever comedy.

BUNDLES.

Don't you just love bundles?

I don't mean bundles to carry or to do up, but to receive and open.

There are few things I hate more than to do up a bundle and few things I love more than to unwrap one which the postman or the expressman has brought me.

The Poor Little Rich Children.

I once attended a Christmas tree at which the father, who acted as Santa Claus, himself unwrapped each package before giving it to the children. The gifts were expensive and desirable but I could have wept for those children. Just think of having the fun of ripping off the string and unfolding the paper and seeing the thing emerge, taken away from you.

There is a fascination about bundles which transcends what we actually expect from them. They are so mysterious, so fraught with infinite possibilities. We open them with the zest with which we turn a page of life. You see, there might be almost anything in an unopened bundle just as there might be on the unturned page.

When Mother Came Home From Town.

Children (both those of small stature and the full grown kind) are especially fond of bundles, perhaps because their belief in the infinite possibilities of things in general is less tarnished. Will you ever forget how you used to hang about your mother when she came from town with her arms full of fascinating bundles? That was before these degenerate days when everything is delivered, and mothers come back from a shopping tour with nothing but an uninteresting little handbag.

"What's in this?" you asked. "What's this?" "Can't I undo this one?" Even when you are told that they merely contained such thoroughly uninteresting articles as winter flannels or a new coffee pot, you still felt a desire to undo them. And when you finally fell upon a bundle of which mother said with a telltale smile, "Yes, you may open that," what a thrill you felt! What if it was only a half pound of candy or a ten cent toy, it was a bundle and it was for you and you had the fun of unwrapping it and discovering it.

Answering the Advertisements.

Even the bundle whose contents are known is not wholly void of fascination. I know a little boy who spends half his weekly stipend answering the advertisements which offer to send sundry and various articles in consideration of one or more two cent stamps. His mother cannot see why he should send for a sample tube of toothpaste when he distinctly objects to brushing his teeth with the excellent paste she provides. "I like to have the little packages come to me through the mail," he explains.

Though I am too inert to answer advertisements even when I would really like the articles advertised, I must confess to a deep sympathy with him for I actually am pleased to see the expressman bring the bundles I myself have ordered in town, and even find a mild pleasure in opening them.

Some will laugh at me, I know, but others will understand and it is for them I am writing today. Perhaps we're childish, but after all that's not such an unhappy thing to be, is it, understanding reader friends?

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

When Dick came home the next evening the house was so still that he thought Nell must have gone down town. He was surprised, for, as there were no cars in the village, she would have to walk, and she was so worn out with the settling.

"Dick, Dick," came in a weak voice from the bed room. He hurried in and found Nell on the bed with a wet cloth over her eyes. "I am sorry, dear, I have such a sick headache you will have to go out to get your dinner. I could not hold my head up any longer."

"You poor little girl. Isn't there anything I can do for you? You have been working too hard, it's a shame."

"The woman is coming tomorrow, and with her help I shall get things so they will be livable. Now you go out and get a good hot meal," urged Nell.

"Isn't there anything I can do for you before I go? You don't look comfortable." He kissed the bit of cheek visible below the cloth.

"You might help me into bed. It made me so sick to move I didn't even take off my shoes." With Dick's help she was soon lying on the cool pillow with a fresh cloth on her head. "Now I can go to sleep, I am sure. I should have telephoned and told you to stop on the way home if I could have held my head up." She gave a relieved sigh.

"I don't want to leave you alone. I believe I will get myself something to eat here. I can poach an egg, make some toast and a cup of tea. Can't you drink a cup with me?" suggested Dick cheerfully.

"Oh, you ought to have a good warm meal. Are you too tired to go downtown?" The worried tone had come again, and the atmosphere of tension.

"I'll get something here. You can tell me how and I will bring it in here to eat with you. I'll put the kettle on right away."

"What shall I cook the egg in?" he presently called from the kitchen.

"Take one of those shallow stew pans," answered Nell with effort.

"Let me make a slice of toast for you," said Dick, putting his head through the door.

"No, thank you, dear. I couldn't eat a thing. Have the water hot before you drop the egg in, then dip the boiling water over it," she instructed.

"How shall I get it in?" he called.

"Break it in a saucer."

"What saucer?"

"Don't take one of the china ones."

"What?"

"Take any one." Nell was getting sick with the exertion of calling.

"What shall I take it out with?"

"A spoon."

"Where is one?"

"In the table drawer."

"The egg has all gone to pieces. What shall I do with it?"

No answer. Nell was too weak to cope with the situation.

Dick came into the room. "There's no egg left," he said ruefully displaying a few fragments on the toast.

"Why not soft boil one? That would be easier; put it in carefully and boil three minutes."

"I never realized how much a cook had to know," laughed Dick, when he finally sat down to cold toast, lukewarm tea and an egg that had burst in the water.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls, twenty-two and twenty-four years of age, and have some questions to ask you.

(1) Do you think one can love with true love more than once?

(2) Does distance lend enchantment or does time lessen one's love?

(3) I am in love with a man twenty-five and he seems to think of me as a sister. He has told me that he is deeply in love with a girl sixteen years old. Do you think a man that old can love a girl that young?

(4) A nice-looking and nice-acting man owns a restaurant. We are acquainted with him and he often talks to us. How can we win his affection?

(5) A man comes to our house every day and often brings candy and other things. He is genteel with us. Should we tell him not to come, or is it all right? He is a married man.

(6) Is there any sure way of knowing when two are rightly mated?

MARVINE AND MAXINE.

(1) Yes. One's ideals are continually changing, and the loves of different stages in life may be equally true.

(2) I am afraid that time and distance lessen love.

(3) He probably loves her now, but I do not believe that his love for her will last. Be a true little sister and he may find that he would like to have you for something more.

(4) I would not counsel trying to win his affection.

(5) Have nothing to do with this man.

(6) If two persons are in perfect harmony with one another and love the same things, they may consider themselves right mated.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two chums and we would like to ask a few questions.

(1) Is a girl too young to go with a fellow twelve years her senior?

(2) We are both sixteen, and we should like to know how to wear our hair.

(3) How can I go with a boy when he goes with another girl? I know he likes me and I also like him.

(4) I do housework in my own home and my hands get very gritty. Will you please tell me something to keep them clean and white?

JACK AND JILL.

(1) A girl of sixteen is too young to go with a man twelve years her senior. If she were a few years older it would be all right.

(2) Wear it in a bread down your back or in braids around your head.

(3) You are too young to worry about such things.

(4) To whiten hands: Strained honey, one ounce; lemon juice, one ounce; cologne, one ounce. Mix and rub well into the hands at night, then wear a pair of large kid gloves, the palms split for ventilation.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen and have been going with a fellow steady for eight months. He goes to high school and I don't see him oftener than once a week, on Sunday night. His folks think a great deal of me. We have been having revival meetings at our church and sometimes I go with another fellow. His folks are always watching me and then telling him who I talk to and go with. Please tell me what to do.

BROKEN HEARTED MIDGE.

You certainly have a right to go to church with other boys and to talk with whomever you please. Always conduct yourself in a manner which the boy's parents could not possibly criticize unfavorably.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl and had a big sore on my cheek some time ago. After it healed it left a scar which spoils the looks of my face. Do you know of anything harmless I could use to take this scar away?

A READER.

An electric needle is the only thing that will remove the scar.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

HERE'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO DARKEN AND BEAUTIFY FADED HAIR.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

QUARANTINE AS WEAPON AGAINST VICE DISTRICT TRIED OUT IN DETROIT.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Detroit, Mich., March 10.—Quarantine as a weapon against the social vice is an innovation which may be tried out in Detroit. Police and health board officials, who have been co-operating in a plan to check the spread of disease resulting from wide open conditions in the red light sections, are about ready to launch a new campaign, it was hinted today.

The new plan, which is experimental in ature, will be the quarantining of any resort which is reported to the police as a menace.

The quarantine method, it is said, will be employed as a substitute for the old police method, now discarded, of closing up resorts which failed to comply with the department's regulations providing for registration and medical inspection, or which failed to report in mates suffering from disease.

"Officially," Detroit has had no vice section for the past 18 months, the resorts having been closed by order of Police Commissioner John Gillespie, in October 1913. It is an open secret, however, that the police have found themselves unable, under present conditions, to cope with the scores of vicious houses that are operating openly in many sections. To meet this new condition, without officially recognizing the failure of his "elimination" order, the commissioner is said to favor a trying out to the quarantine plan.

Under the proposed new method, any resort that is considered a menace, will be quarantined by the health officials, placarded and in other ways treated as though smallpox or some highly contagious disease existed there.

ATTACK 'DEMON RUM' IN FOUR DAY SESSION HELD IN APPLETON.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Appleton, Wis., March 10.—"Total Abstinence First—Efficiency and Safety Follow."

That is the slogan of the Efficiency Institute, which opened a four days' session in the armory here today. An anti-alchoholic exhibit, arranged by various temperance organizations, was opened to the public. Prof. R. C. Mullenix of Lawrence college gave an illustrated lecture on, "For the Sake of Health, Efficiency and Safety, Don't Touch Alcohol," this afternoon.

Dr. M. J. Sanborn and Rev. W. J. Fitzmaurice will speak this evening. Other speakers for the week are: Judge Thomas H. Ryan, Geb. T. Kamps, Judson G. Rosebush, Frank J. Harwood, Karl E. Maeser, G. E. Buchanan, and Prof. Paul G. W. Keller, principal of Appleton high school. A mass meeting for men and boys will be held Sunday.

Now is the time to get rid of any household article you do not wish to store or have no use for.

Miss Ruth Shepley and "Duke of Snobs."

Miss Ruth Shepley, who is one of the most versatile of the younger stage stars, is very fond of dogs. She loves everybody who loves dogs, and her little Pomeranian pup, "Duke of Snobs," is her inseparable companion. Miss Shepley is also very fond of horses and automobiles.

ONCE HE WENT A-COURTING HER ASTRIDE A CALF; SHE'S STATE'S "FIRST LADY" NOW

Governor and Mrs. Tom C. Rye.

Gen. Tom C. Rye, Tennessee's new governor, rode into the heart of the girl he married astride a calf. He was too poor to afford a horse or mule but the girl he wooed accepted him. Now she's "first lady" of an important state.

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

BY ALICE CREW GALT

THE ILLNESS OF LEANDER LOBSTER.

Leander Lobster once came in from play and said, "Oh, my!
I feel so very, very sick I think I'm going to die!"
And when his mother looked at him she said, "I tell quite sure
You would not be so red unless you had a temperature.

"I'll send at once for Doctor Clam, because I know that he
Is quite the best physician in this part of the sea.
And while we wait for Doctor Clam," Leander's mother said,
"I think that you had better lie down in your ocean bed."

When Doctor Clam came in and felt Leander's forehead hot,
Said he, "The scarlet fever is what this child has got.
A big dose of cod-liver oil is my invariable rule,
Then call a young Sponge in to bathe his forehead till its' cool.

"If he is hungry he may have a jelly-fish or two,
And later on, if he desires, a dish of oyster stew;
But he must have no other food at all till he is well,
Because you know that most sea food is indigestible."

As soon as Doctor Clam had gone, Leander Lobster said,
"What nonsense that old doctor talks! I will not stay in bed!
And, furthermore, I mean to have as much food as I wish;
I won't go hungry just because I'm scarlet feverish."

In spite of all his mother's tears, he got into his clothes
(A lobster's dress is mayonnaise, as everybody knows),
And started out along the beach. "I think I'll stroll," said he,
"Perhaps I'll meet somebody who will ask me in to tea."

And sure enough he met a Whale, who smiled an oily smile.
And said, "Leander Lobster, won't you step inside awhile?
I'm very fond of Lobsters when I find them nicely dressed;
I'm just about to have my tea—pray wont you be my guest?"

He opened wide his wicked jaws—Leander disappeared;
Just where he went nobody knows—the very worst is feared!
I rather think the truth is this (I'll tell it though it hurts),
Although Leander missed his tea, he did get his deserts!

Household Hints

STUFFED PEPPERS.

Parboil the peppers, cut them in two, remove seeds and stuff with rare roast beef, minced, and mixed with cooked rice. Cover with buttered crumbs and place them in a baking pan. Bake twenty minutes, basting occasionally with melted butter or with stock. Serve on small, thin pieces of toast.

LENTEN DISHES.

Thick Rice Soup—Two pints water or stock, salt and pepper to taste, two small onions, two tablespoons butter, one cup rice, one cup canned tomatoes or four fresh ones. Wash and drain rice. Heat butter in sauce pan, add rice and stir constantly until a golden brown. Now add water, onions, tomatoes and seasonings. Cook slowly one hour.

Cracker Dumplings—Half pound oyster crackers; crisp them in oven for a while, then roll fine, add pinch salt and lump butter size of hazelnut; pour over and stir into crumbs enough boiling water to moisten thoroughly. When cool, add one well-beaten egg and with your hands form into balls about one inch in diameter. Drop them into kettle of boiling water ann let boil steadily ten minutes. Meanwhile brown a little butter, take up dumplings into hot dish and pour butter over. These can be put in soup just like you would the flour dumplings.

Baked Eggs—Cover bottoms of buttered gem pans with stale bread crumbs; break an egg into each, add salt and cover with another layer of crumbs. Dot with butter and bake five minutes.

Light Omelet—For each egg allow one-fourth teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, and one tablespoon milk or stock. Beat yolks and whites separately. Fold whites into yolks, add milk and seasoning. Turn into buttered frying pan. When brown on bottom place in oven till top is set. Fold and serve at once. Chopped ham, oysters or cooked chicken livers may be added.

Ox-Eyes—Cut bread into rounds, removing a little from center of each, toast lightly, place on pan and moisten with hot seasoned milk. Break egg into each cavity and place in oven till set.

Ham Omelet—Make same as plain omelet and as soon as it begins to thickin sprinkle over it three tablespoons finely chopped ham; roll and serve.

WORTH KNOWING.

To Guard Against Fake Inspectors—Cut colored reproduction of badges worn by employees of gas and electric light companies from the circular mailed to every home at some time in the past and paste the same just inside the surface door. On each copy is the number if your meter. When an inspector calls just glance at the "badge" pasted on the wall and then ask him for the number of your meter.

To Remove Grease From Motor Coats—Rub a little lard on each grease spot; let stand a short time before washing, then rub out in lukewarm water and soap. Rinse well and bang on coat hanger to dry.

When cleaning mopboards, the wall adjoining may be protected by using a piece of cardboard held against upper edge of mopboard. This allows the cleaning cloth to soil the cardboard instead of the wall.

In wiping up hardwood or any varnished floor, pour a few drops of kerosene in the warm water, instead of soap. This will leave the same gloss on the floor as before, while soap eats the varnish.

PEPPER SALAD.

Cut the peppers lengthwise in half, and fill with a mixture of flaked cold cooked fish and minced celery, mixed with moyannaise.

If there is much sour cream on hand, put it in an egg beater and whip it into butter. Then pat it together, drain off the buttermilk, and wash the butter in running, cold water until it is sweet and fresh. Salt to taste.

This takes only ten or fifteen minutes and both saves the cream and results in a dainty pat of buter.

Always, when mixing a milk mixure, pour the other mixture over the milk. This prevents curdling. For instance, in mixing tomato and milk, add the tomato to the milk. In mixing meat stock with cream sauce, pour the meat stock into the other. Add also a small pinch of soda.

PEPPER PUREE.

Wash the peppers, boil them for fifteen minutes and then remove the skin. Cut, remove the seeds and chop fine. Boil again in salted water for five minutes and then simmer for thirty minutes. Drain and press through a wire sieve. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and add the peppers. Then add salt to taste and four tablespoonfuls of cream. Mix thoroughly and serve with meat as a garnish.

GOVERNMENT CONSIDERS GERMAN INDUSTRY OF MAKING POTATO ALCOHOL.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, March 10.—Whatever may happen to alcohol as a beverage through the prohibition movement, the United States Department of Agriculture announces it is convinced that "licker" is bound to assume high importance in scientific agriculture. The results of study in Germany indicate that a manufacture of alcohol for technical purposes—not for human consumption—is not regarded in itself as a profitable business but as a necessary factor in general farming, says the Department.

Approximately 6,000 agricultural potato distilleries are now in operation in the German empire. Many of these are co-operative distilleries in which it is interesting to note that the co-operators do not hold shares having a certain money value, but possess the privilege of calling daily for a certain quality of spent mash. To the potato crop itself an eighth of the arable, land in the German empire is now devoted, and the production is enormous.

In some instances crops of more than 535 bushels per acre have been harvested, while yields of 300 to 375 bushels are quite common. Although such yields are produced only under favorably circumstances, it seems obvious that the total yields can be very considerably increased if new uses for alcohol can be discovered to create the necessary demand. At the present time in the eastern provinces of Germany it is the price of spirits which regulates the price of potatoes.

Her First Dinner Party.

I was giving my first dinner in our new home, and, being somewhat excited, asked a couple who were Quakers by faith to ask a blessing on our food. They refused and in turn suggested that I ask the blessing. Never having made a prayer or speech in company, I became greatly confused and said: "Oh, no, let's just pass it up."—Chicago Tribune.

WHAT TO DO FOR ITCHING SKINS

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful that thousands of other physicians have been prescribing it constantly for 20 years.

Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's.

CLEARS BLOTCHY SKIN

Try resinol soap for a week. You will be surprised to see how it clears and freshens your complexion, even in that short time. Used for the shampoo, it removes dandruff and keeps the hair live, rich and lustrous. This is because it contains the soothing, healing resinol medication.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father Is Undoubtedly Expecting Too Much

BY F. LEIPZIGER

HOW SOLDIERS LIVE AND FIGHT IN THE TRENCHES.

London, March 10.—When it rains the trenches are half filled with water. The cold is always of the damp, penetrating, dreadful kind that chills to the very marrow. Hot food is served three times a day to the men in the trenches by other soldiers, who scurry like rabbits through long uncovered tunnels running back from the works concealing the guns.

These men in the trenches must have good food in order that they can have good blood, and if they have good blood, they have good courage, they keep warm because their circulation is good and their extremities are warm from exercise. Many men are invalided, however, because their blood and their stomach were not right to withstand the awful hardships of this winter campaign.

When you do not properly digest your food your blood becomes thin and every organ of the body soon feels the effect. The result is—headaches, sleeplessness, nervousness and many other symptoms—due to accumulation of poisons in the body. Unless the stomach is given aid at this stage—more serious illnesses follow. Now is the time to help your weakened stomach—now is the time to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (in tablet or liquid form). It has the same power to set you right as it has been proved to have in thousands of other cases. It will help your stomach so that the food you eat will nourish and sustain you and make good reviving blood. It will enable you to get rid of the waste a sluggish liver and irregular bowels have permitted to accumulate in your system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is composed of known native healing remedial roots and herbs with no alcohol nor narcotic drugs to give you harmful habits. It can now be obtained in tablet or liquid form from dealers, or send 50 stamps for box of tablets.

Address: Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

How To Gain Weight A Pound a Day

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. All leading druggists in Janesville and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back. Advertisement.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you will find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

"Tell me what has happened? It can't be that your father is ill—or in danger. You are angry, Frederic; so it can't be that. What is it?"

He looked away sullenly. "Oh, it's really nothing, I suppose. Just an unexpected jolt, that's all. I was angry for a moment—"

"You are still angry," she said, laying her hand on his arm. She was a

"Tell Me What Has Happened."

tall, slender girl. Her eyes were almost on a level with his own. "Don't you want to tell me, dear?"

"He never gives me a thought," he said, compressing his lips. "He thinks of no one but himself. God, what a father!"

"Freddy, dear! You must not speak—"

"Haven't I some claim to his consideration? Is it fair that I should be ignored in everything, in every way? I won't put up with it, Lydia! I'm not a child. I'm a man and I am his son. Gad, I might as well be a dog in the street for all the thought he gives to me."

She put her finger to her lips, a scared look stealing into her dark eyes. Jones was conducting the two old men to their room on the floor below. A door closed softly. The voices died away.

"He is a strange man," she said. "He is a good man, Frederic."

"To everyone else, yes. But to me? Why, Lydia, I—I believe he hates me. You know what—"

"Hush! A man does not hate his son. I've tried for years to drive that silly notion out of your mind. You—"

"Oh, I know I'm a fool to speak of it, but I—I can't help feeling as I do. You've seen enough to know that I'm not to blame for it either. What do you think he has done? Can you guess what he has done to all of us?" She did not answer. "Well, I'll tell you just what he said in that wireless. It was from the Lusitania, twelve hundred miles off Sandy Hook—relayed, I suppose, so that the whole world might know—sent at four this afternoon. I remember every word of the cursed thing, although I merely glanced at it. 'Send the car to meet Mrs. Brood and me at the Cunard pier Thursday. Have Mrs. Desmond put the house in order for its new mistress. By the way, you might inform her that I was married last Wednesday in Paris.' It was signed 'James Brood,' not even 'father.' What do you think of that for a thunderbolt?"

"Married?" she gasped. "Your father married?"

"'Put the house in order for its new mistress,'" he almost snarled. "That message was a deliberate insult to me, Lydia—a nasty, rotten slap in the face. I mean the way it was worded. Just as if it wasn't enough that he has gone and married some cheap show girl or a miserable foreigner or heaven knows—"

"Freddy! You are beside yourself. Your father would not marry a cheap show girl. You know that. And you must not forget that your mother was a foreigner."

His eyes fell. "I'm sorry I said that," he exclaimed, hoarsely.

Lydia, leaning rather heavily against the door, spoke to him in a low, cautious voice.

"Did you tell Mr. Dawes and Mr. Riggs?"

He stopped short. "No! And they waited up to see if they could be of any assistance to him in an hour of peril! What a joke! Poor old beggars! I've never felt sorry for them before, but, on my soul, I do now. What will she do to the poor old chaps? I shudder to think of it. And she'll make short work of everything else she doesn't like around here, too. Your mother, Lydia—why, God help us, you know what will just have to happen in her case. It's—"

"Don't speak so loudly, dear—please, please! She is asleep. Of course, we—we shan't stay on, Freddy. We'll have to go as soon as—"

His eyes filled with tears. He seized her in his arms and held her close. "It's a beastly, beastly shame, darling. Oh, Lord, what a fool a man can make of himself!"

"You must not say such things," she murmured, stroking his cheek with cold, trembling fingers.

"But why couldn't he have done the fine, sensible thing, Lydia? Why couldn't he have—have fallen in love with—with your mother? Why not have married her if he had to marry someone in—"

"Freddy!" she cried, putting her hand over his mouth.

She kissed him swiftly. Her cheek lay for a second against his own and then, with a stifled good-night, she broke away from him. An instant later she was gone; her door was closed.

The next morning he came down earlier than was his custom. His night had been a troubled one. Forgetting his own woes—or belittling them—he had thought only of what this news from the sea would mean to the dear woman he loved so well. No one was in the library, but a huge fire was blazing. A blizzard was raging out-of-doors. Once upon a time, when he first came to the house, a piano had stood in the drawing-room. His joy at that time knew no bounds; he loved music. For his years he was no mean musician. But one evening his father, coming in unexpectedly, heard the player at the instrument. For a moment he stood transfixed in the doorway watching the eager, almost inspired face of the lad, and then, pale as a ghost, stole away without disturbing him. Strange to say, Frederic was playing a dreamy waltz of Ziehrer's, a waltz that his mother had played when the honeymoon was in the full. The following day the piano was taken away by a storage company. The boy never knew why it was removed.

He picked up the morning paper. His eyes traversed the front page rapidly. There were reports of fearful weather at sea. The Lusitania was reported seven hundred miles out and in the heart of the hurricane. She would be a day late.

He looked up from the paper. Mrs. Desmond was coming toward him, a queer little smile on her lips. She was a tall, fair woman, an English type, and still extremely handsome. Hers was an honest beauty that had no fear of age.

"She is a stanch ship, Frederic," she said, without any other form of greeting. "She will be late but—there's really nothing to worry about."

"I'm not worrying," he said confusedly. "Lydia has told you the—the news?"

"Yes."

"Rather staggering, isn't it?" he said with a wry smile. In spite of himself he watched her face with curious intentness.

"Rather," she said briefly.

"I suppose you don't approve of the way I—"

"I know just how you feel, poor boy. Don't try to explain. I know."

"You always understand," he said, lowering his eyes.

"Not always," she said quietly.

"Well, it's going to play hob with everything," he said, jamming his hands deep into his pockets. His shoulders seemed to hunch forward and to contract.

"I am especially sorry for Mr. Dawes and Mr. Riggs," she said. Her voice was steady and full of earnestness.

"Do they know?"

"They were up and about at daybreak, poor souls. Do you know, Freddy, they were starting off in this blizzard when I met them in the hall!"

"The deuce! I—I hope it wasn't on account of anything I may have said to them last night," he cried, in genuine contrition.

She smiled. "No. They had their own theory about the message. The storm strengthened it. They were positive that your father was in great peril. They were determined to charter a vessel of some sort and start off in all this blizzard to search the sea for Mr. Brood. Oh, aren't they wonderful?"

He had no feeling of resentment toward the old men for their opinion of him. Instead, his eyes glowed with an honest admiration.

"By George, Mrs. Desmond, they are great! They are men, bless their hearts. Seventy-five years old and still ready to face anything for a comrade! It does prove something, doesn't it?"

"It proves that your father has made no mistake in selecting his friends, my dear. My dear husband used to say that he would cheerfully die for James Brood and he knew that James Brood would have died for him just as readily. There is something in friendships of that sort that we can't understand. We have never been able to test our friends, much less ourselves. We—"

"I would die for you, Mrs. Desmond," cried Frederic, a deep flush overspreading his face. "For you and Lydia."

"You come by that naturally," she said, laying her hand upon his arm. "Blood will tell. Thank you, Frederic." She smiled. "I am sure it will not be necessary for you to die for me, however. As for Lydia, you must live, not die for her."

"I'll do both," he cried, impulsively. "Forgive me."

"There is nothing to forgive," she said simply. "And now, one word more, Frederic. You must accept this new condition of affairs in the right spirit. Your father has married again, after all these years. It is not likely that he has done so without deliberation. Therefore, it is reasonable to assume that he is bringing home with him a wife of whom he at least is proud, and that should weigh considerably in your summing up of the situation. She will be beautiful, accomplished, refined—and good, Frederic. Of that you may be sure. Let me implore you to withhold judgment until another and later day."

"I do not object to the situation, Mrs. Desmond," said he, the angry light returning to his eyes, "so much as I resent the wording of that telegram. It is always just that way. He loses no chance to humiliate me. He—"

"Hush! You are losing your temper again."

"Well, who wouldn't? And here's another thing—the very worst of all. How is this new condition going to affect you, Mrs. Desmond?"

She was silent for a moment. "Of course I shan't stay on here, Frederic. I shall not be needed now. As soon as Mrs. Brood is settled here I shall go."

"And you expect me to be cheerful and contented!" he cried, bitterly.

"Something of the sort," she said.

"My father objects to my going into business or taking up a profession. I am dependent on him for everything. But why go into that? We've talked it over a thousand times. I don't understand but perhaps you do. It's a dog's way of living."

"Your father is making a man of you."

"Oh, he is, eh?" with great scorn.

"Yes. He will make you see some day that the kind of life you lead is not the kind you want. Your pride, your ambition will rebel. Then you will make something out of life for yourself."

"Well, it looks to me as if he means to make it impossible for me to marry, Mrs. Desmond. I've thought of it a good deal."

"And is it impossible?"

"No. I shall marry Lydia, even though I have to dig in the streets for her. It isn't that, however. There's some other reason back of his attitude, but for the life of me I can't get at it."

"I wouldn't try to get at it, my dear," she said. "Wait and see. Come, you must have your coffee. I am glad you came down early. The old gentlemen are at breakfast now. Come in."

He followed her dejectedly, a perceptible droop to his shoulders.

Mr. Dawes and Mr. Riggs were seated at the table. Lydia, a trifle pale and distrait, was pouring out their third cup of coffee. The old men showed no sign of their midnight experience. They were very wide awake, clear-eyed and alert, as old men will be who do not count the years of life left in the span appointed for them.

Dinner Stories

A man entered the cloakroom at the end of a banquet and began to smash in silk hat after silk hat.

"Hold on, boss! Wot fo' yo' smashin' all dem high hats?" demanded the attendant.

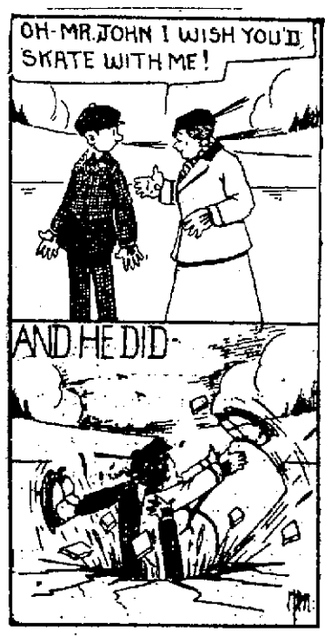

"I'm looking for my own," the gentleman answered. "It's an opera hat—collapsible, you know. None of these seem to be it."

A former member of the Kentucky legislature, now engaged in the practice of law in Louisville, tells of the time that the question of permitting osteopaths to practice was mooted one in the legislative body. There were arguments pro and con until the speech of a mountaineer statesman did much toward steeling the question. Obtaining recognition, he spoke somewhat as follows: "I'm in favor of letting these osteopaths practice. The homeopaths practice, the allopaths practice. All the other paths practice. And, after all, we may as well to remember that, as the poet says, the paths all lead but to the grave.

The charitable lady was treating a pensioner to a set of false teeth. The pensioner picked out the cheapest set offered. "Don't you think it would be well to select better teeth while you are about it?" asked the lady. "I am perfectly willing to pay a little more and get good ones." "Oh, ma'am," lisped the pensioner, "what'th the uthe of putting any more money into thomething that my husband will only knock oown my thraot the firth time he geth real mad?"

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach troubles are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of thoe sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."—Advertisement.

A Draft—You Catch Cold—Then Follows

Coughs, Cold Stiff Neck Neuralgia

Especially in the piercing pain of neuralgia or the dull throb of headache is Sloan's Liniment wonderfully relieving. Laid lightly on the part where the pain is felt, it gives at once a feeling of comfort and ease that is most welcome to the overwrought sufferer.

Hear What Others Say:

"There are no Liniments that equal Sloan's. My husband has neuralgia very often, he rubs Sloan's on his face and that is the last of it."—Mrs. V. J. Brown, Route 1, Box 121, Hails, Tenn.

"I have used Sloan's Liniment for family use for years and would not be without it. We have raised a family of ten children and have used it for croup and all lung trouble; also, as an antiseptic for wounds, of which children have a great many, it can't be beat. My wife sprained her ankle last summer and it was in bad shape. Sloan's Liniment applied enabled her to be as good as ever in a week. I have used it several times for sprains and rheumatism."—John Newcomb, R. F. No. 2, Keokuk, Iowa.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass or water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

AVOID SOIL BEING SOUR BY TESTING

Too Many Believe Soil That Raises Corn etc., is Alright for Alfalfa.

(By Allen B. West.)

The writer was discussing agricultural problems the other day with a young farmer.

"Do you raise alfalfa." I asked.

"No. I tried it twice, but I couldn't make a go of it. I don't know what was the matter."

"Perhaps your soil is sour," I ventured. "Have you ever tested it?"

"No, I never tested it, but there's no trouble with the soil. The soil is rich, it raises good crops."

Now the writer is unable to say without further information why this man failed in raising alfalfa, but his reply reveals a mistake under which a great many farmers of more experience than this are laboring. They think if the soil will grow other crops, corn for instance, it is not therefore sour. This however, is not true. All sorts have a tendency to become sour and long cropping without application of lime tends to make them for the decay of organic matter in the soil products certain acids, so soils, rich in humus are likely to be acid. "Nearly all prairie soil is in from degree acid, especially on slopes where teaching of the soil has carried away the original deposits of lime, and wherever large supplies of humus have formed from the decay of organic matter."

The presence of sheep-sorrel growing abundantly is a pretty good indication of acid soil, but on one need be uncertain as to whether or not his soil needs lime, for it is a very simple matter to test the soil. From the drug store one may procure for a few cents blue litrones paper for testing. All that is required is to place the paper in a lump of moist oath, leaving it there for about 10 minutes. If after that time, the blue litums paper has a reddish tinge, the soil is acid and needs liming.

With so simple a process required to determine whether or not soil is acid, it is not only foolish but very bad manageemnt to waste seed, time, labor and money trying to grow alfalfa on acid soil. The first thing to do when one wishes to put ground into alfalfa is to determine whether the soil is acid. The test can easily be made now, and if acidity is found plans may be lead for liming.

Every progressive Rock County farmer who has not already some alfalfa growing should be planning to put some in this coming season.

SEE HEAVY RECEIPTS IN TOBACCO MARKETS

Road and Rail Shipments to Local Market Show Improvement Tendency in Buying Movement.

The weather of the past week has been given great impetus to the local tobacco movement. Heavy receipts are reported throughout the past three working days and on Saturday it is reported that more leaf was delivered in the local market than on any previous two days of the season. In the tobacco districts of the city the streets were jammed with wagons ready to dispose of their loads.

There remains some leaf in the sheds at present but it is of a small acreage, according to tobacco dealers. Some growers are planning to store their crops, but on a whole the number is comparatively small. Quite a movement from the growing districts has been prevalent during the past six weeks. Riders are still in the field taking whatever remnants are possible. They are also said to be anxious to secure much of the crop that has already been placed in storage and are reported to be offering somewhat better prices than those that governed the market at the first of the year.

Local warehouses have enough tobacco on hand now to keep sorters busy for at least a month. A large number of carload shipments have been consigned to local dealers during the week.

Speaking of the status of the state tobacco conditions through its Wisconsin correspondent, the United States Tobacco Journal says:

"Those tobacco growers who were fortunate in selling their crops last Fall are in luck, for the marketing of what is left seems mighty unsatisfactory. Buyers are telling all sorts of stories about the low grade of the leaf. Demand is correspondingly stagnant in most cases. Whatever affairs there have been during the week were largely based on stemming grades. The dairy industry in certain parts of the state will gain members from the ranks of dissatisfied tobacco growers. In the neighborhood of Edgerton, a buying movement which developed considerable proportions about ten days ago was not strong enough to improve prices, and although some quantities changed hands, prices were uniformly low. At the packing points, delivery of the crop has proceeded far enough for all warehouses to have on hand enough tobacco to keep full forces employed."

Let the want ads help you to get any thing you want.

Positive Relief For Constipation

The progress of modern medical science is, perhaps, no more forcefully evident than in the simplifying of many of the old time remedies of past generations. For instance, the harsh cathartics and violent purgatives used by our forefathers to relieve constipation are now known to be not only unnecessary but really harmful. Constipation can be more effectively relieved without the discomfort and pain these old-time remedies occasion.

A combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is most effective, yet mild and pleasant. It is absolutely free from opiates and narcotics and equally as desirable a remedy for the tiniest babe as for rugged manhood. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question and "How to Prevent Colds" is asked a thousand times every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but due to a disordered condition of the blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the body better able to withstand the varying elements.

This is the underlying reason why the medicinal fats in Scott's Emulsion quickly overcome colds and build strength to prevent more serious sickness. It contains nature's medicinal fats, so skillfully prepared that the blood profits from every drop, and it is free from harmful drugs or alcohol.

FRUIT LAXATIVE IF COSTIVE, BILIOUS, HEADACHY--"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

BEST LIVER AND BOWEL REGULATOR FOR MAMMA, DADDY AND CHILDREN.

If you're headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" tonight and in the morning all the constipation poison, bile and clogged-up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it for baby. It simply can not injure. Even cross, sick, feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest easiy after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing."

For thirty years "California Syrup of Figs" has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and see that it is prepared by "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Hand back any "counterfeit" with contempt.

Farm Work a Lasting Joy.

Approached from the point of view of science, the labor of the farm is a continued joy. It is a manipulation of the laboratory which the real chemist does not relegate to a helper, it is the touching of a canvas by an artist's brush which cannot be left to an amateur.—From Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's "The Lure of the Land."

Heron's Good Appetite.

The heron, which has an average weight of only four pounds in spite of its size, has been known to eat three and one-half pounds of fish at one meal.

DETECTIVES POSING AS SCRUBWOMEN SAVE WEALTHY MEN FROM BOMB PLOT

Underwood & Underwood

Left to right: Patrick Walsh, Jerome Murphy and Jim Starrett.

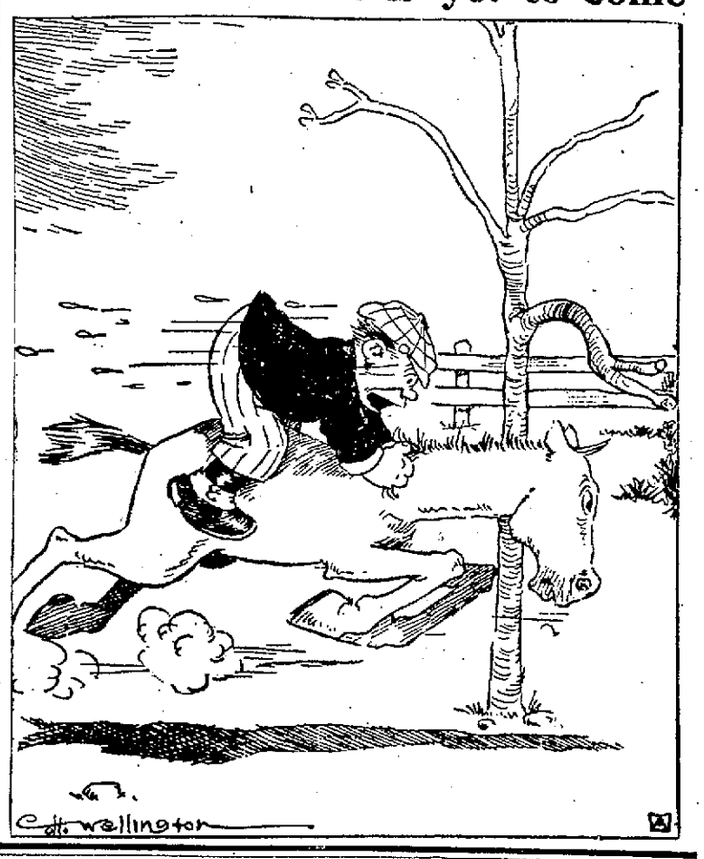

A huge bomb plot, of which St. Patrick's Cathedral at New York, the Rockefellers, Carnegie, Vanderbilt and other wealthy men were the objects, was nipped in the bud by the work of these clever detectives, two of whom posed as scrubwomen and the third as a church usher. Frank Abarno, an Italian anarchist, was to start the reign of terror. He was caught by these detectives when he threw a bomb with fuse lighted in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, March 10, 1875.—The Bell at Last: The fire committee had a meeting yesterday afternoon and decided to purchase a bell for fire company No. 2. The weight will be 1,200 pounds, of first class metal, and will cost $420, without freight. Of this amount the Sack contributes a little more than $100, two or three citizens gave nearly $300 more and the city pays the balance. The bell was ordered yesterday and should be here within several days. The anxiety about the safety of the bell when put in place will be removed by the erection of a substantial tower of sufficient height, which will not cost more than $40 or $50.

William Sadler, over Griswold's tin shop, has just completed a double set of harness for David Watt, which are certainly a credit to the maker. They are made of the best stock, finely stitched, and handsomely mounted with nickel plated trimmings, and have heavy russent reins. As a specimen of excellent workmanship, taste and fine finish, they are superior to any work of the kind we have seen in the city. Mr. Sadler is a skillful mechanic and makes all that class of work with his own hands.

The Famous German War Films Soon to be Seen Here.

History is writing another chapter of its story now on the bloody battle-fields of Europe and the whole world is deeply stirred and interested in the daily writing of its pages.

Baron Edmund von Rakowski of the 4th Elite Regiment of Berlin, who will lecture and describe in detail "The German War Pictures" at Myers Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, March 15th and 16th.

The wonderful advance in the motion picture art made it possible for us to actually look upon the things that are happening and have happened in the greatest struggle that the world has ever known.

The Motion Pictures, taken by permission of the General Staff, depict the whole story of the war up to date and show the happenings of the eastern and western theatre of war. Scenes taken in Russian Poland, Galicia and East Prussia, are the first ever shown before the great American Public.

The enactment of the many scenes just as remarkable before one's eyes will interest all regardless of their sentiment or their sympathies in the present struggle. Manager Myers of the Myers Theatre has arranged with the War Film Corporation of New York City to exhibit these marvelous pictures of the War as it really is at the Myers Theatre March 15-16. A noted lecturer, in the person of Baron Edmund von Rakowski of the 4th Elite Regiment of Berlin will explain in detail the many scenes.

The Million Dollar Doll.

Mr. Harvey D. Orr's big sensational musical comedy success "The Million Dollar Doll" is the next big attraction booked at the Myers Theatre on Sunday, March 14, matinee and evening.

This is one of the most widely discussed musical comedies of the day, pronounced by both press and public to be the most attractive farce comedy along with catchy music and dancing girls ever crowded into two hours and half of enjoyment. Beautiful gowns, whistling music, 1000 laughs and the greatest singing and dancing chorus in musical comedy, all go to make "The Million Dollar Doll" the biggest musical comedy sensation of the season.

A big scenic production is carried, including special electrical effects and novelty scenes. Taken all in all, it looks like "The Million Dollar Doll" will be one of the best musical treats for local theatre goers here this season.

In "Martha By-The Day," the new comedy in which May Robson will appear at Myers Theatre Wednesday, March 17. "Martha Slawson," the role that has been created by Miss Robson, is that of a New York maid-of-all-work, who is brim ful of a mingled sentiment and humor that makes a fine type of feminine humanity. She is shrewd, kindly and practical minded and, although assigned to a humble position in the world's work, her authoritative philosophy and big store of optimism have an important bearing upon the fortunes of one of Gotham's most exclusive families. The role is one eminently fitted for interpretation by Miss Robson, who as the theatergoing public of this country well know, possesses not only brilliant comic gifts, but also a rare power of emotional appeal. A splendid company appears in support of the star, including the following players: Jane Heron, Langdon Gillet, Mary Mersch, Edwin Brant, Violet Howard, Coates Gwynne, Emily Lorraine, Henrietta McDannel, Roy Ardmore, Elizabeth Warren and others. The production is unusually elaborate for a comedy offering.

Guy Bates Post in "Omar, the Tentmaker."

Fascinating Omar Khayyam, Persian poet and mystic, will pitch his tent and uncork his beloved jug of wine at the Myers Theatre for one night, Monday, March 22, when Guy Bates Post and his splendid company of nearly one hundred will present Richard Walton Tully's spectacular love-play of old-Persia, "Omar, the Tentmaker," the central figure of which is none other than the merry souled poet of the eleventh century. Mr. Tully is working upon another romantic drama with a spectacular setting for the use of Mr. Post three years hence when that eminent dramatic artist shall have exploited the entire theatrical world with his present starring vehicle.

Edward Abeles in Henry W. Savage's Successful Farce, "The Million."

"The Million," a play with a constant succession of surprises, described by metropolitan critics at the time of its New York presentation as "a farce in a million," has at last been converted to the screen by the Famous Players Film Co., with Edward Abeles in the role of the daring and lovable burglar. The four part production is the Paramount feature at the Apollo tonight.

Edward Abeles enacts no less than six different characterizations in this subject, and assumes his various disguises with remarkable cleverness, being alternately suave, intense, bullying and amusing, as the character demands.

The story is more amusing and humorous than any comedy play of recent years.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, March 10.—The funeral of Charles M. Brown was held Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. I. Andrews of the M. E. church, and was largely attended. Mr. Brown was seventy-four years of age. Besides a wife he leaves three daughters to mourn his departure: Alice Brown, Mrs. Grace Shetter and Mrs. A. E. Johnson. The following from out of town were here to attend the funeral: Mrs. Sarah Cowles, Mrs. E. Skinner and daughter and Mrs. Fred Meech of Beloit; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Douglas of Lake Mills; Courtney Douglas of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. E. Peterson, Mrs. Mary Ripley and Amos Hitchcock of Walworth; Rutherford Davis and Mr. and Mrs. L. Porter of Fontana.

Mr. and Mrs. George Potter of Edelstein, Illinois, are visiting at C. E. Potter's.

Mrs. Will Ewing entertained a company of little girls last evening at a tea party in honor of her daughter Frances' thirteenth birthday.

Mrs. Geo. Chaffee, who has been quite ill, is somewhat improved.

M. H. Wadleigh has gone out to assist Irving Wilbur, who is suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

The Junto club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. A. Hurlbut. The ladies had the pleasure of listening to a very instructive talk by Merton R. Fish on "Banking, Past and Present, and Currency Law." This was followed by a supper, to which their husbands and other guests were invited.

Mrs. Emily Harnden of Corner Grove called on Mrs. G. C. Chaffee yesterday.

Captain J. W. Weld is spending today with friends in Palmyra.

There was a very interesting meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon in the city library building. The program was in commemration of the birthday of Lillian N. M. Stevens, former national president and editor of the Union Signal. The program was assisted by the presence of the L. T. L., under the leadership of Mrs. E. C. Fish, who sang their songs and gave their rally cries. Subscriptions were taken for the Union Signal, and $5 was voted toward the coming no-license campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Kenyon of Milwaukee are visiting here.

Mrs. A. L. Kiesey has gone to Racine to visit her daughter, Mrs. H. Hinkel.

Alec McLernon has moved to the Baker house, on South Franklin street.

Ira Mason and Claude Hanson were in Milwaukee yesterday.

PHOTOPLAYS OFFER TREAT TO LOVERS OF GOOD DRAMA

Famous Stars and Noted Plays Are Now Possible to be Seen at Low Prices.

Fortunate, indeed, are the theatregoers of today in being privileged to witness attractions such as was presented at the Apollo last night for the very low price of fifteen cents. Many were present last night who had paid $1.50 and $2 to see Wilton Lackaye in "The Pit," and then too, without the support as given by Miss Gail Kane, who is now starring in "The Miracle Man" on Broadway, and a strong cast, in the photoplay last night. The settings in themselves surpass the stage production.

The producers as well as the exhibitors are to be complimented in making it possible to see noted stars in such celebrated productions as the Apollo is presenting the first three days of each week through the Paramount and the World Film programs. It is high class photoplays like these that are revolutionizing the show business.

RABBIT SAUSAGE TO BE NEWEST DELICACY.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Austin, Texas, March 10.—"Rabbit sausage—Made in Texas:" If you come across this new wiener you may remmeber that the Texas legislature has just placed a bounty of 5 cents per head on jackrabbits. There are many millions of jackrabbits in Western Texas. Everyone knows what fun it is to hunt rabbits. The well prepared rabbit also is a gastronomical delight. Since the passage of the bounty the slaughtering of the little jacks has become an important industry. E. T. Castleman of Llano is preparing to erect a plant there for the manufacture of rabbit sausage and great numbers of the long-eared animals will be required.

A suggestion of bigger game—but no sausage—is contained in the appropriation of $100,000 to pay bounties on predatory wild animals like panthers, Mexican lions and wolves. An equal amount has lately been spent by Texas to protect its stockmen from losses by the larger wild animals still to be found in the sparsely settled parts of Texas. The results of the first appropriation were so manifest that the legislature made a second appropriation.

Edgerton News

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Edgerton, March 10.—The Boys' Literary society met in the high school auditorium last evening and the meeting was called to order by President Francis Curran and the minutes of the last week meeting were read by Secretary Fred Kellogg and approved by the society. The following program was rendered:

Debate—Resolved that it would be advisable for our government to grant absolute independence to the Philippine Islands. Affirmative—Mulford Nelson, Clarence McIntosh. Negative—Clarence McCarthy, Rollin Livick. The debate was won by the affirmative by a very close decision. Following the debate the following gave five minute talks: "Eight Years of Our Pure Food Law," Howard Richardson. "Why Germany feels antagonistic towards England," William Shea. At the close of the evening program the society practiced parliamentary drills.

The store buildings on Swift street, the property of John Mawhinney, which were destroyed by fire the night of January 7, 1915, are being razed. It is the plan of the owner to replace them with a modern brick store building, a part of which will be used by Hans Jacobson as a city bakery. The building will be erected by Contractor George Davy.

Evansville News

Evansville, March 10.—A number of young people very pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gransee Monday night presenting them with a clock. Mr. and Mrs. Gransee have just moved into the north half of the W. J. Hyne residence on Madison street. The evening was spent in games. A picnic supper was served at midnight. All report a splendid time.

A very unique entertainment will be held Thursday night at MaGee's hall under the auspices of the J. M. Evans Camp No. 12, Son's of Veterans. Local merchants are offering liberal prizes for the reading of Monologues, piano solos, songs, dancing, best fiddler, worst fiddler, tallest fiddler and numerous other things. The contestants are all to be local people and the novel affair is sure to be a success.

Two large entertainments and several smaller affairs were given last winter with satisfactory results. This feature will be the largest and best yet attempted and the clubs are working hard to make it a success.

Spencer Pulleu and his aunt, Miss Daisy Spencer, ieft this morning on a pleasure trip to Chicago.

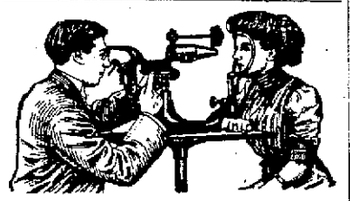

The Drama Club met last night at the home of Mr. Frost. A program was decided upon for the balance of the spring months and money appropriated to buy the books chosen to be read. The Piper was then read by the Misses Rowley and Green, Miss Emma Brunsell gave a sketch of the author's life and works and then the club enjoyed a spirited discussion of both.

Mrs. Walter Green very pleasantly entertained a number of friends last night.

Miss Maxwell conducted the second meeting of the cooking class yesterday in her usual way most profitable to the members. Cheaper meats was the subject of the lecture and laboratory work although cleaning up afterwards was not neglected.

Mrs. M. L. Paulson entertains this afternoon at her home.

The Grand Theatre is being thoroughly overhauled. The walls and ceiling are to be cleaned and painted, a new ventilating system installed and the stage improved. The ticket office will be moved forward and when opened March 29 will be one of the best houses of its kind in the state.

AUSTRIAN SCOUTING PARTY EXPERIENCES

Berlin, March 10.—Daring exploits which won quick renown for an Austrian cavalry officer in Galicia are related in newspaper correspondence from that section.

The Austrian headquarters had learned that the Russians were bringing forward reinforcements. Aviators were sent out to ascertain the size of them, but the weather was foggy, and the scouts were not able to find the Russians. An unnamed cavalry officer, who appears as the hero of the narrative, stepped forward and asked:

"Shall I ride through the lines?"

His superiors laughed at the bold offer, but after some hesitation agreed to accept it when fifteen other cavalrymen volunteered to make up the scouting party. By choosing the lonely forest road, the riders succeeded in their plan of passing through the Russian lines at night. By day they concealed themselves in deep thickets, but at night they boldly trotted along on the main highway with their Austrian uniforms covered with brown mantles and fur caps pulled down over their regulation helmets.

They met a Russian cavalry division led by a Circassian prince advancing to take part in the battle at the front, and their mounts almost touched flanks with the Russian horses as they passed by, unrecognized. Late at night the Austrian party took refuge in a deserted farm house, where the men tried to sleep until morning. Before daybreak a murmur of voices was heard and a large party of Cossacks was seen approaching the place. The Austrians hurriedly mounted to the attic where they stood with carbines cocked, ready to shoot down the first Cossack who might show his face in the stairway. The Russians, however, contended themselves with a short stay on the first floor and then rode away without even inspecting the outbuildings, where the Austrians had stabled their horses.

The following night the little party of scouts rode along a path in the wooded hills where suddenly a Russian patrol barred their way with the cry of "Halt." The Austrians were motionless for a few seconds, then their leader commanded "At them" and not one of the Russians escaped with his life.

Concealed next day in thickets, the Austrians were able to see heavy columns of Russians retreating along the nearby road. The Austrian advance had evidently begun. For hours the masses of infantry, artillery and baggage trains hurried by toward the adjacent river, crossing a temporary bridge. On the top of the hill beyond the river the Russians halted, apparently with the intention of taking up a position there.

The Austrian cavalry officer who was leading the scouting party had sent a handful of men across the river to watch the Russian movement. He feared this little group might be in danger, and so decided upon the dare-devil trick of bluffing the Russians by charging the bridge with his little party. The dozen men galloped wildly across the fields toward the bridge. There they met the advance guard of their own infantry, and, encouraged by this, they dashed at the Russians who evidently believed large masses of Austrian cavalry were coming after them. They hastily resumed their retreat.

The Large Plate Glass Windows Were Set Today

The Golden Eagle's Display Cases and Windows Now Almost Ready For The Decorators.

It is positively wonderful the way these big windows were put into place; everything had been figured out to a fraction of an inch, in advance, and when the glass came it was merely a matter of setting it in place. The modern way of doing things allows of no mistakes and no delays. It is now merely a matter of hours until the decorators will have the new goods on display in these windows and display cases.

A Most Complete Presentation of the New Modes at Our Opening.

The windows and cases will be veiled until a day and hour to be announced later. Then will come the unveiling, revealing to the public the hosts of beautiful new things that will comprise the correct fashions for the coming spring season, shown exclusively here.

Today a force of men have been busy polishing the new cases and counters until they glisten.

The woman's rest room is gradually being finished and a few days will see it completed, a cozy nook designed for the comfort and convenience of our patrons.

ONLY THAT WHICH IS ABSOLUTELY CORRECT WILL BE SHOWN HERE.
